NEARLY $20,000,000
IN APPROPRIATION BILL AS IT STANDS

COMPULSORY EDUCATION COSTLY ITEM IN STATE EXPENDITURES—THREE ADDITIONAL ASSISTANTS FOR SUPERINTENDENT DOUGHTY.

INCREASE IN TAXES EXPECTED

If Proposed General Appropriation Bill Goes Through Without Pruning Ad Valorem Tax Probably Will Be 20 Cents—$400,000 Added to Departmental Bill.

Austin, Tex., May 8.—If all the increased appropriations in the general appropriation bill go through and escape the governor's veto, the bill will carry nearly $20,000,000 and an increased tax rate amounting possibly to 20 ad valorem may be necessary to raise the money to meet the requirements of the bill. The senate committee added more than $400,000 to the departmental bill, the largest portion of which, nearly $200,000, went to the educational department, some of it being made necessary by the adoption of the compulsory education law in Texas.

Superintendent Doughty is given three additional assistant superintendents for two years at $2,000 yearly each, and $100,000 in equal portions of $50,000 each for two years, which is for the aid given by the state to such high schools as maintain manual training, domestic science and agricultural departments.

Salaries of the quarantining offices at Laredo, El Paso and Brownsville are raised from $900 to $1,800 in the state health department, which is given an increase of $56,000. The rat exterminating expert is not given a fixed yearly salary, but is to be retained at $200 a month as long as necessary.

The departmental bill will be ready to introduce about Tuesday next and the educational bill will be sent in Monday.

Both senate and house committees seem to be viewing with each other in rolling up biggest appropriations.

Opponents Gibson Bill Win.

The opposition to the Gibson insurance bill in the house won the first skirmish on that measure today when Representative McAskill, one of the authors of the Gibson bill, moved to have the bill and all proposed amendments pending before the committee on insurance printed in the journal and 200 extra copies of the journal be printed and laid on the desks of the members.

This motion aroused a fusillade of points of order and parliamentary inquiries, which consumed over an hour.

After amendment by Representative Tillotson, providing that only the bill as introduced in the house be printed in the journal, was adopted by a vote of 62 to 32. Representative Tillotson was opposed to printing the amendments.

Opponents of the bill claim that this is a test vote on the measure, but friends of the bill insist that it is not because several members who favor the bill were opposed to having the proposed amendments printed in the journal at this time, as other amendments are to be offered.

The committee is to make its report on the bill Monday night.

The privilege of the house was granted to the members of the inter-collegiate league of the university, and Dr. E. D. Shurter, head of the league, made a brief address and the visitors were welcomed by Lieutenant Governor W. P. Hobby.

Want Government to Return Money.

Upon resuming business, Representative Cunningham and others offered a concurrent amendment that congress be memorialized to return to the respective states of the south the amount collected as revenue tax on cotton under federal law of 1866, which later was held unconstitutional, and that the Texas delegation be urged to introduce a bill carrying out the provisions of the resolution. The resolution was adopted. A resolution was also adopted relative to the question of decrease of cotton tare. The speaker was authorized to appoint a committee to inspect the official group picture of members of the house, just made.

The house adjourned until Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

The senate was not in session today. Governor Ferguson returned today from Kingsville, where he had been for the last two days on personal business.

Sociologists Begin Sessions at Houston

Houston, Tex., May 8.—With delegates from practically every state in the south in attendance, the fourth session of the Southern Sociological Congress began its work at the City Auditorium, this evening at 8 o'clock.

Owing to the absence from the congress of Governor James E. Ferguson, who was to have made the welcome address for the state of Texas, Mayor Ben Campbell made the welcoming address.

One of the chief addresses of the evening was by Dr. Cunningham on "the moral equivalent of war; the war on disease," in which he pointed out that the higher civilization was a civilization that stands for the construction and preservation of the human race, not its degeneration and destruction, as are being practical in the European war.

Oil Excitement in Bell.

Temple, May 8.—Oil excitement is at fever heat in Bell county, and many thousands of acres of farm lands have come under mineral leases within the last two weeks. Local capitalists are almost solely interested in the exploitation being carried on. Two wells are being drilled at Schwertner, close to Bartlett, and another is going down on the farm of Governor Ferguson in the same locality. Within ten days over a dozen drilling outfits will be actively at work.

LESS THAN 700 OF ALL ON BOARD SHIP LUSITANIA SAVED

MANY HAD CONFIDENCE IN THE ABILITY OF VESSEL TO STAY AFLOAT AND REMAINED ON DECK—SHIP SANK WITHIN TWENTY MINUTES.

HOLES TORN BY TWO TORPEDOES

Two Torpedoes Tore Great Holes in Liner—England Greatly Disturbed. People With German Names Are Boycotted—Crowds Besiege Cunard Line Offices.

London, May 9, 12:25 a.m.—Of those who left New York a week ago on the Lusitania, less than 700 are survivors of that vessel, which was torpedoed and sunk by German submarines off Kinsale, Ireland, Friday afternoon.

A full list of the survivors, which includes but very few of the first-class passengers, is not yet available, but probably there are not many names to add to those which already have been made public.

All the evidence goes to show that the first-class and many of the second-class passengers had such confidence in the ability of the Lusitania, because of her watertight compartments, to remain afloat after she received the first blow that they did not concern themselves about taking to boats or putting on life preservers. When the passengers did realize that the Lusitania was doomed they found that most of the boats on the port side were so jammed, because of the great list of the vessel, that they could not be lowered, and the last seen of them by the more fortunate passengers who had secured places in the starboard boats, or who had jumped overboard and had been picked up, they were lined on the sloping decks awaiting their fate, doubtless even then believing that, with land so close, they would still be saved.

Great Holes in Ship.

However, the torpedoes had torn such gaping holes in the liner that she did not remain afloat for more than twenty minutes, and the calls for help which the wireless sent out, although answered quickly, could not bring the rescuing steamers to the spot in time to be of service.

There is much difference of opinion as to how many torpedoes struck the ship, and as to whether an explosion of her boilers followed. In fact, after the first torpedo hit the Lusitania forward the crew were busy getting to their stations and the passengers who escaped, in getting to the boats and providing themselves with life belts. In shipping circles and among many of those saved the impression prevails that more than one German submarine attacked the Lusitania and that two or more torpedoes found their mark.

This view is held at the Cunard offices at Liverpool, but the officers of the ship will make no statement until the inquest or an admiralty inquiry brings out their evidence.

The scenes at Queenstown where the survivors were landed and where there are many bodies of those who were killed or died of exposure were neartragedy. Many women separated from their husbands have been searching the hotels, hoping to find them alive, or failing in this, have been looking for them in hastily improvised morgues. Others went on to Cork, while still others left yesterday for London, where they will arrive Sunday morning.

Crowds at Company's Office.

At the London and Liverpool offices of the Cunard company, large crowds again assembled yesterday, hoping against hope that those whom they had expected to meet on Saturday at the latest, might still turn up, but there was little expectation for those who had not already heard from their beloved friends or relatives.

Consul Frost at Queenstown Says No Hope for More.

Sixteen Identified American Dead Are Found—Complete List Given Out.

Washington, May 9.—The names of 73 survivors of the 188 Americans aboard the Lusitania had been reported to the state department at midnight, when the task of comparing the lists was suspended until tomorrow. Consul Frost at Queenstown said there was virtually no hope that more would be found alive.

In addition, the department had received the names of sixteen identified American dead, Ambassador Page at London having added the name of Arthur Foley to those reported by Consul Frost. Three other Americans were believed to be among the unidentified bodies at Queenstown.

Nothing that the Germans have done since the outbreak of the war has so aroused the anger and determination of the British people as the sinking of the Lusitania. This anger is shared by the Americans in London who had relatives or friends or relatives.

This view is held at the Cunard offices at Liverpool, but the officers of the ship will make no statement until the inquest or an admiralty inquiry brings out their evidence.

NEWLY COMPLETED E. W. MARSHALL HOME

One of the handsomest and most elegantly appointed residences in Waco is the new home of E. W. Marshall, at Twenty-sixth and Austin, which has just recently been completed and into which Mr. and Mrs. Marshall are moving at this time. It is of the Southern colonial type, with a broad piazza under high colonnades, which gives that genial air of genuine hospitality indigenous to the Southland.

Upper Austin avenue has long been one of the most charming residence streets in Texas, and the E. W. Marshall home is a pleasing acquisition to the long stretch of classic buildings which vie in attractiveness with the business section of the city at the lower end of the avenue.

The house was designed by Ross & Cason, architects, and they have reflected credit upon themselves in the beautiful lines produced by their art.

There are nine spacious rooms, the floor and doors in hardwood and all trimming in white enamel. Hot water heating is installed and the house is also piped for gas. The interior decorations, fixtures and furnishings bear out to the minutest detail the Southern colonial type. In fact, every possible touch that would add to the comfort of the household has been remembered, and there are few if any residences in the South that are built more nearly to the ideal of a family home.

The setting and the work of the landscape artist of this large plot of ground, covering an entire block, adds much to the completeness of home of this type.

the play, and still unconsciously we ran in on it, young men and maidens, old men and children, and decent women.

Producers Cater to Public Taste.

One of the producers said recently: "We producers will get the public all the educational films they'll take; but we aren't running a charity bazaar, exactly, aren't in this for our health, and we find that unless we shoot somebody or have a sentimental love scene, we have the films to amuse ourselves with. It's the public taste; we've got to give them what they want." But does the general public want such awful plays as "The Devil?"

In answer to this, I quote from the Chicago Christian Advocate:

"So ready are the makers of films and the exhibitors thereof become in showing indecent and dangerous scenes that the city was compelled to step in and exercise censorship. The men managing these companies are not in the picture business for the good they can do, not in the least, and it is absolutely demanded that they be curbed by ordinance."

Chicago has consequently established a board of censors of five men and five women who witness the unrolling of every film seeking entrance into the city. They supervise all silent pictures and vaudeville and decide what shall be excluded 'in toto' or where certain films may be expurgated.

The board has found abundant reason for its existence. The press in Chicago did not uphold the censors, but remember the press gets large amounts in advertising the stories and movies and thereby may not always be in accord with such a board."

One of the most elaborate films now on the stage is that which tells the story of Cleopatra. Serious objection may be taken to the central figure representing a large, coarse, voluptuous woman without a trace of any kind of fascination; a woman who could no more tempt a man of Mark Anthony's imagination or ability than she could interest Shakespeare. Cleopatra was a woman of genius, whom age could not wither, nor custom stale, of infinite variety. A gross voluptuous woman has no variety, and is stale at the start. But this film should be condemned for its cruelty with which it familiarizes the audience. Chairman is thrown to the crocodiles and three slaves go through torture to death, in the sight of the audience.

This is from the "Gotham's Child's Garden of Verse":

In the shows I see with nurse How the sneak-thief gets the purse; Doors forbidden are unlocked, But nurse and I are never shocked.

Gangsters, crooks and lobby-gows, A pretty lady with a spouse; Oh, what fun it is to go With nurse to every movie show!

Influence on the Child.

The attitude of many parents in Waco is horror or disgust at what their children may see at the movies, but do they in any way curtail their children's freedom in going to anything and everything that the theatres have? Apparently not, by the droves of children crowding the shows after high school is out. How many parents give their children money indiscriminately when they say, "Mama, give me a nickel to go to the movie?" Do they ever ask where they are going? Isn't there some responsibility expected from parents?

Waco Parents Very Laz. On April 2nd I found in the Morning News an account of a lost boy, whom a man named Carroll claimed. The boy stated that Carroll was not his father, but the latter explained those statements as delusions produced in the child's mind by moving pictures.

In New York and I hear in Europe there are children's theatres where the pictures are educational, or sanitary and just amusing, and until Waco has some provision, parents have a grave responsibility in controlling their children.

Houston has had a censorship for several years, and Dallas has a board of men and women who work voluntarily, with the chief of police as an ex-officio member, and with power to suppress what is indecent and unclever. Waco is known all over the state as a dumping ground for state's rights pictures or anything else, no matter how bad. We have provision in the charter for a board of censors. Shall this be a dead letter or a live letter?

Do not mistake me in thinking that all the theatres show immoral films.

The Waco houses are overwhelmingly good, but just so long as there is no control, the poor will be shown. But we should be protected from happening to see some plays seen in Waco this winter and have a right to demand that we shall not be dumping ground for state's rights films, and that old and young may feel free to go and enjoy what is truly the people's theatre without running into indecency, cruelty and vulgarity.

Now what shall we do with the movies?

Women in Ye Olden Times Did Not Paint

The painter man was the only one who knew how to blend colors and mix paint, which he did in the old fashioned way by hand. Things are different now. Machinery can take the same lead, zinc and linseed oil and mix it so much better that it is no wonder the practical painter says, "I can't make paint that is as good as Minnesota Paint." That painter is honest, and you will profit by using it on your house.

Let Wm. Cameron & Co. tell you about why it costs less for the job, but more for a gallon than cheap paint. Phone them for an interview.

PRACTICALLY COMPLETE—PRINCIPAL SPEAKERS SECURED.

American Beauty Glee Club Makes Trip—Tennis Preliminaries Now Being Played.

The program for the seventieth annual June commencement exercises of Baylor university to be held this year at the university June 6-9, is practically complete. Rev. W. A. Hamlett, pastor of the First Baptist church of Austin, and a graduate of the Baylor class of 1896, will deliver the commencement oration on Wednesday, June 9. Dr. W. J. McGlothlin of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky., has been chosen for the baccalaureate sermons, morning and evening, June 6. O. C. Payne, associate editor of Farm and Ranch of Dallas, and a graduate of the class of 1902, will deliver the annual address before the Alumni Association Tuesday morning, June 8. Other features of the four days' program will be the annual June inter-college debate, orchestra and other musical programs, class and society reunions and the alumni banquet.

Practically a hundred degrees will be conferred at the June commencement. Not including the fine arts certificates and diplomas which will be awarded, this will be among the largest classes that has graduated from Baylor. Arrangements for the program have been under the direction of Prof. F. G. Guittard, chairman of the faculty committee.

W. J. McGlothlin, Ph. D. D. D., who delivers the class sermons, is said to be one of the deepest scholars and most fluent speakers in the ranks of the Southern Baptist denomination. He is a teacher of Homiletics, in the Southern Baptist Seminary, managing editor of the Review and Expositor, a Baptist theological quarterly published at Louisville, and is connected with many other lines of the denomination's activities in the south.

Rev. W. A. Hamlett is one of the well known Baptist pastors of Texas, and has an intimate acquaintance with the college student and the church. He has been pastor for some years in the leading Baptist church of the university city of Austin. In his oration to the class he will dwell on the theme of the new world the student faces. O. C. Payne of Dallas, who delivers the annual address, has for some years specialized in the study of the rural problems of Texas. In his capacity as associate editor for the Farm and Ranch, probably the best known paper on rural interests in the state, Mr. Payne has studied and written up most of the farming conditions and problems of this state and of the south. His address will deal with the new era in southern farming.

Browning's Birthday.

The birthday of the great English poet and contributor to the world's literature, Robert Browning, was celebrated with a program by the Browning class of Dr. J. Armstrong in the Philo hall at Baylor university Friday evening. The hall was crowded with some two hundred invited guests of the class. Another feature of the celebration of the 103rd anniversary of the poet will be in the nature of a Browning play given at fresco by the class from the balcony of Dr. Armstrong's home, Tuesday evening, May 18. This will be the first Browning play ever given in Texas, it is said.

C. E. Wallace of Waco, member of the class and pastor of one of the city churches, gave the welcome address for the program Friday morning and acted as master of ceremonies. Miss Irene Marsch of Waco read a paper on "Browning's Message to the Student" and other members consisted of choice readings from the poet's works and vocal renditions of some of Browning's poems. Others taking part in the program were: Misses Margaret Royalty, Dorothy Renick of Waco, Juanita Copass of San Marcos, Juanita Smith of Waco, Nellie Lee Hill of Waco, Vera Humphrey of Portales, N. M., and Lois Upshaw of Dallas.

In addition to the play, "In the Balcony," which will be the feature of Tuesday evening, May 18, there will be a brief musical program followed by a reception and refreshments. More than two hundred guests have been invited for the "Browning Evening." A literary reading such as this in the name of a professor of the university is something a little different in the literary life of the school and may be made an annual affair by Dr. Armstrong, head of the department of English at Baylor.

Miss Lurline Mosley of Waco will play the leading role in the al fresco presentation as Constance. J. E. Burkhardt, Jr., of Houston will have the character of Norbert and Mrs. Mary Cloys Harrington of Greenville will appear in the role of "The Queen."

H. N. Niger of Bolton will act as master of ceremonies for the evening. Vocal selections from Browning's lyrical productions will be given by Misses Lois Upshaw, Juanita Smith and Fern Thurman, and J. D. Isaacs and Henerson Barton of Waco will give a reading from Browning's "Saul." Music for the occasion will be furnished by an orchestra under the direction of Anton Navratil.

Decorations for the program Friday and for the "Browning Evening" are in charge of a committee headed by Miss Genevieve Warren of Palestine.

The arrangements for the class hour in the Philo hall were declared to be exceedingly attractive, combining mural decorations of vines and flowers with classical pictures from the collection of Dr. Armstrong.

Glee Club Makes Trip.

The American Beauty Glee club, composed of the choicest voices of Baylor girls, made its first out-of-town trip when it went thirty-seven strong to Hillsboro Friday night. The club was greeted by a full house in the lecture room of the First Methodist church, and was entertained at an informal reception after the program. John De Heck, minister in the department of vocal culture of the university, is director of the club.

The singers went in a special interurban car Friday afternoon and returned at midnight. They were chartered by Mrs. T. H. Claypool, matron of the young women's dormitories. Other trips will probably be made by the club later.

Judges at a public contest in which the six young women will deliver their orations. Tomorrow night had been chosen as the time for the contest, but it has been postponed on account of Mikado rehearsals and the date will be set later.

The following young women made speeches, ranking in the order named: Misses Frances MacLaran of Waco, Lois Upshaw of Dallas, Mary Edna Boothe of Eagle Lake, Cloanthia Copass of San Marcos, and Estelle Coleman and Landis Barton of Waco tied for fifth place. This is the first contest of its kind in Baylor and was instituted by Prof. Odie Mintrit of Dawson, a former graduate. It will be an annual contest beginning with this year.

Round-Up Out This Week.

The Baylor Round-Up, the students' annual, will come off the press this week and be distributed. The book this year will consist of 360 large size pages with green oozie and black and pink board bindings with hundreds of illustrations. This year Editor B. V. Ellery of Goodnight, and Manager E. C. Hankamer of Beaumont have been able to arrange for a much quicker delivery than usual, the annual having often been delayed until June.

Something over 750 copies of the book will be published which represent a cost of approximately $3,000. This year the book is being printed and bound in Waco by one of the local printing companies.

Baylor's history for the year is traced pictorially in snapshots and cartoons, and by the pen. The Round-Up ranks along with the two or three most artistic year books of Texas universities. Two hundred copies of the annual will be placed in Texas high schools and a hundred copies will go to the Baylor medical department at Dallas.

"Farmerette" to Be Given.

"The Farmerette" is the title of the annual show this year given by the young women of the Caliphorean Literary Society in Carroll Chapel on Wednesday night, May 12. The play is a fascinating little comedy with plenty of "punch" and fun in it, and will be backed up by the Caliphorean and special members of the society, who plan to make the evening one of genuine merriment. This will be the open session of the society to which all are invited with no admission charges.

A joint session of the members of the Caliphorean and the men's society, the Erisophian, will be held in the latter's halls next Friday night. The meeting is planned as an "inspirational" meeting to generate enthusiasm in the two organizations and for enjoyment of the members. A program is announced.

Tennis Preliminaries On.

The local preliminary series to determine the winners to represent Baylor in the Texas Intercity Tennis tournament, to be held on the Duron courts in two weeks, began last night. The winners will be announced the latter part of the week.

Among the men who are showing up for places in the finals are: Moore, Caskey, Barrett, Taylor and Morgan.

Two newly clay courts are being built at Minglewood park and will be ready for use when the tennis champions from the various Texas colleges come here the latter part of the month to test their racquet ability.

President S. P. Brooks of Baylor

and Dean J. L. Kesler are in Houston

where they have been attending the Southern Sociological Congress, and will remain for the meeting of the Texas Baptist convention which meets in the same city. Both the president and the dean were speakers on the sociological program.

Graduate recitals in the department of fine arts will be given this week

by Miss Corra Ivey of San Marcos

on Tuesday, and by Miss Stella Wolters of Shiner on Thursday. Miss Ivey is a graduate in piano and Miss Wolters completes her work in Bay-

UNITED STATES NOW FACING ONE OF THE GREATEST CRISES IN ITS HISTORY

abroad for pleasure, but have given them to those going on business."

In diplomatic quarters in Washington the incident continued the greatest sensation of the war. Ambassadors and ministers were intensely interested in what the policy of the American government would be.

Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, was still away and no comment was made at the German embassy, but among German officials and diplomats friendly to the German cause there was reticence and no comment which Germany had insisted upon as their justification for submarine warfare against merchant ships. It was reiterated that Great Britain by preventing foodstuffs from reaching the civilian population of Germany threatened her non-combatants with starvation. In the face of such an act, they declared, Germany made whatever reprisals were possible, however severe.

Sufficient Warning.

The proclamation by the German admiralty of a war zone around the British Isles and the subsequent warnings held to have been sufficient warning to Americans not to hazard their lives on belligerent vessels. The presence on the Lusitania of 42,000 cases of cartridges was pointed to as a potent argument for the vessel's destruction. No comment was made on the statement of Chairman Stone that the attack on the American steamer Gulflight without warning was in his opinion a more serious case for the American government to deal with than the Lusitania.

The impression prevailed tonight that the Gulflight case, the attack on the British steamer Falaba, which resulted in the drowning of Leon Thrasher, an American citizen, and the attack by German airmen on the American steamer Cushing would be grouped together in general representations from the United States to Germany.

While not the slightest intimation came from the British home officials in departmental circles, a variety of speculations were heard to discuss. One course suggested was that a note be sent to Germany demanding an explanation of the occurrence with a request for an indemnity. Another was that American vessels hereafter be convoyed by American battleships and cruisers. The severance of diplomatic relations without an actual declaration of war with Germany was also talked of informally.

Some telegrams reaching the white house said that the president would be supported even if he thought war was necessary to defend American rights in the high seas. Other messages counseled peace and declared the country was solidly opposed to becoming involved in the European conflict.

REVISED LIST OF PASSENGERS SAVED OF THE LUSITANIA

Queenstown, via London, May 8.—Clinton Bernard of New York City, one of the first cabin survivors of the Lusitania, had this to say of his experiences:

Clings to Upturned Boat.

The Rev. W. H. Simpson, a passenger in the second cabin, saved himself by clinging to an upturned boat.

"After a struggle we filled this boat with all we could rescue," Dr. Simpson said today. "We tied a pair of trousers to an ear and hoisted it to the deck just as the liner went down.

"The German submarine made no attempt to save anybody. We saw it for a moment just before it dove.

"The first torpedo struck us between the first and second funnels. The Lusitania shook and settled down a bit. Two other torpedoes quickly followed and soon finished our ship.

"Four or five of our life boats went down with her and the tremendous suction as the liner was engulfed dragged many people down also.

"The noise of the explosion was not very great. The first torpedo burst with a big thud and we knew that we were doomed. We had floated about two hours in our small boat before the first rescue steamers arrived. Prior to this time, some small shore boats and fishing smacks came along and helped us."

Red Cross to Aid.

Washington, May 8.—Miss Mahel T. Boardman, chairman of the relief board of the American Red Cross, announced yesterday that the Red Cross would receive contributions for relief of substitute survivors of the Lusitania and families of the victims.

FILLEY, REGRET, WINS DERBY.

Louisville, Ky., May 8.—Harry Payne Whitney's chestnut filly, Regret, ridden by Jockey Nettie, won the Kentucky Derby, valued at approximately $15,000, at Churchill Downs here today. Regret was the first filly ever to score a victory in the forty-one years history of the stake. She defeated sixteen other starters. Her time for the mile and a quarter was 2:05 2-5. Pebbles was second; Sharpshooter third.

The first explosion staggered us and the others finished us. The Lusitania disappeared in twenty minutes after the first torpedo struck.

"It was a terrible sight, but the passengers were surprisingly cool. Nearly all the first cabin passengers were recovered. Those recovered were second and third-class passengers.

"We did not get a moment's notice from the submarine. It appeared suddenly above the surface on our starboard bow and discharge a torpedo at us. It disappeared as suddenly as it came into view.

Many Pound Packages of Butter Sold Here Found Under Weight

Of thirty-six packages of butter sold as pounds, weighed yesterday by Dr. R. H. Hodges, city pure food inspector, only nine were found to be full weight. The remaining twenty-seven of the packages ranged all the way from a pound to twelve ounces.

Dr. Hodges said that whenever a customer calls for a pound of butter and the merchant gives one of these short packages, the merchant is guilty of violation of the pure food law, although the short weight may be noted on the package. A warning has been issued to all grocers and butchers of the city that they must cease to sell short weight packages of butter. No complaints have yet been filed, but prosecutions will follow further violations of the law.

Dr. Hodges pointed out that care should be taken in "working" butter before moulding, as many standard pound moulds will show short weights if the butter is not properly worked.

Dr. Hodges also tested twenty-nine counter scales used by grocers and butchers, finding only five that weighed overweight, considered a fair proportion. Three of the scales tested weighed under.

What's In the Cup?

The flavour may be agreeable, but appetite isn't the only thing to be considered.

The average cup of coffee contains about 2 1-2 grains of caffeine, a powerful drug which is a frequent cause of indigestion, constipation, nervousness, heart trouble and other ills.

Some persons are strong enough to use coffee for a time without apparent harm, but repeated doses of its subtle, cumulative drug, caffeine, sooner or later affects even the strong man or woman.

Any coffee drinker will benefit from a change to

INSTANT POSTUM

This pure food-drink has a snappy tang, very like the Old Gov't Javas, but it contains no caffeine, nor any other harmful ingredient. It is made of selected wheat, a little wholesome molasses and is pure, invigorating and delicious.

And Instant Postum is so easy to make. Put a level teaspoonful in a cup, add hot water, and sugar and cream to taste.

The convenience of Instant Postum is seen at a glance. Sold in 30c and 50c tins. Some prefer Postum Cereal—the original form—which must be well boiled, 15c and 25c pkgs.

Grocers sell both kinds, the flavour is equally delicious and the cost per cup is about the same.

War talks by veterans of 1903.

General W. H. Patterson, chairman of the board of strategy, has given out the following war communiques pursuing the invasion of Waco, May 10, at high noon. He states that General Rockhold has been on a scouting expedition for several weeks especially commissioned for the work assigned him.

General Patterson said: "General Rockhold has just returned and reported that Admiral W. W. Soley has Waco well fortified and entrenched and the entire country surrounding the city has been visited from an aeroplane and has the appearance of a checkerboard. He reports that several trainloads of barbed wire have been stretched across the fields and woodlands."

The tactics adopted by General Soley are very much the same as those now in use in the European war, leaving intention Admiral Soley to leave only such way unprotected for an approach to Waco as to lead the enemy to the Brazos which is heavily mined and protected by submarines. Trenches have been dug as near Dallas as Chamberlain creek, which is also heavily mined. Scouts have been seen as far as Five Mile creek, apparently under command of Major General W. R. Davidson, accompanied by Dr. I. L. McGlasson, surgeon-general.

The report shows that it would be impossible for our army to advance on Waco without meeting barbed wire entanglements and with perfect and absolute mass assemblage.

The war board is composed of the following gentlemen: W. W. Soley, chairman, admiral of the Brazos; J. H. Lockwood, major-general, provost guard; W. R. Davidson, major-general, Waco division; Dr. I. L. McGlasson, surgeon-general of staff; Dr. E. Lane, major-general, central division; L. C. Puckett, brigadier-general, ambulance corps; John McNamara, advocate-general, 16th division; W. B. Knight, secretary, rear admiral battleship archives.

The barbed wire is usually securely fastened to heavy bois d'arc posts and frequently left concealed upon the

Old Settlers Plan for Annual Picnic on Saturday, July 4

Sam Sanger Thinks Chance Good for Oil in the Malone Field

At the meeting of the advisory committee of the Old Settlers association of McLennan county yesterday, L. C. Puckett presided in the absence of Col. Wm. Poage, the chairman, who was unavoidably absent.

It was decided to have a regular old-fashioned basket picnic at Cameron park in Waco on Saturday, July 24th, and to invite all old and early settlers, and descendants and families thereof—all being cordially welcome to the pleasures in store.

Arrangements will be made for an interesting program in the morning and afternoon, including musical songs and speeches of reminiscence nature.

Those present at yesterday's meeting were: L. C. Puckett, Bob Ross, B. B. Ingram of West, M. J. Montgomery, Mc Gregor, Charles E. Moore and M. B. Davis.

Colonel Poage will soon name various committees, such as reception and entertainment, committee on speakers, amusement, music, grounds, badges, etc., and a general good time will be enjoyed on the occasion.

Cameron park has been tendered the general committee and it is ample accommodations in the shade of speakers' stand, seats, plenty of shade and delightful grounds, in the opinion of Colonel Poage and others it is an ideal place for such an occasion.

Suppose this All-Weather tread—now double-thick—was pared to the thinness of the usual anti-skid. Would it endure like this one? Or resist puncture?

Suppose we used—as some do—one less fabric ply. Or made the whole tire lighter. Suppose we omitted our exclusive features:

Our "On-Air" cure—
Our rubber rivets—
Our 126-piano-wire base.

All rivals do omit them. All of them are costly. Our "On-Air" cure alone costs us $450.00 yearly to save needless blowouts. But could Goodyear Fortified Tires retain top place if we did not give those extras?

Instead of that, we all the time add costly better-

TAYLOR-THRALL OIL FIELD IS DIFFERENT

FIRST OF ITS KIND TO LODGE ITS TREASURES IN IGNEOUS ROCKS.

OTHER DISTINGUISHING MARKS

Development Has Been Most Rapid,
Due to Shallowness of Wells.
Farms Financial District.

(By Maid J. Allen.)

Different from any other field in the world is the distinction that characterizes the Taylor-Thrall oil field, and only in Mexico has been found anything similar in quality of crude production and this was not, according to geological advices, found in igneous rocks, as is the case here. Standing alone as a freak in quality, daily developments are fast determining the fact that the Taylor-Thrall oil field will prove one of unsurpassed production and area. The state geologist's report which embraces many interesting features of this field, contains the following:

"Some cuttings from the oil sand in the new field near Thrall in Williamson county was of such unusual nature that Dr. J. A. Udden, geologist of the bureau, after careful study of it, visited the field for the purpose of securing more of it. On making a close examination he found that this oil field is different from any known field in the United States, in that the oil is held in an igneous rock. This rock lies in the lower part of a heavy formation of marl and clay, usually known as the Taylor marl. It has been entered in the new field at a depth of about $20 feet below the surface, and it continues downward from this depth nearly 100 feet in two of the wells."

Oil Yield Greater Farthest Down in Rock.

It has been found that the yield of oil is greater in wells going farthest down in this rock. Some of the first wells which stopped a few feet below its upper surface, have later been reopened with a resulting increase of production. Thus it will be seen that the Taylor-Thrall field is so peculiarly distinguished from other known fields that it has claimed personal attention of geological experts, as well as that of oil experts, throughout the oil world, while from the beginning have come here from the four corners of the whole country. Being only in its infancy—little more than two months old, to be accurate—the story of the discovery and development of the Taylor-Thrall field is worldwide and the rush that started from every section in the instance of the discovery has increased with the growing excitement daily. So that now that is surrounding the field a scene of activity that no stretch of imagination can exaggerate. The hillside on the Fritz Fuchs farm, where previously the busy bees have plied their industry, bringing from the blossoms in the peach orchard, where they were snugly housed in hives, the pollen of the springtime, now to be seen an animation of human industry busier than bees, and to mention the proverbial "busy bee" in no measure approaches a description of the scene, either in the oil field or on the streets of Taylor, Thrall and all the nearby towns.

Field Widened, Stocks Go Sky-High.

From the day of discovery there has been unprecedented activity, but with the widening of the field by bringing in wells as much as a mile from the discovery hill, the "get busy right now" began to permeate all and the contagion ran rampant. Stocks jumped sky-high. The center of operation in Taylor lies in the Murphy hotel district, which was formerly known as the "Levee," but which now goes under the pseudonym of Wall street. Here oil brokers rush madly about with books in their hands calling for highest bids, and the bids come, too. The scene is typical of the Chicago market, when excitement is at its highest.

Taylor on the Boom.

The boom is on in earnest in Taylor. New companies for various pursuits are being organized and chartered, as many as fifteen charters being the record for one day—the majority of these being for oil companies. The enthusiasm was greatly augmented by the bringing in of the first well on the Diebel farm, about one mile from the discovery hill. This was on the 18th. Crowds gathered all day to watch the work on the Caldwell company well No. 1, on the Diebel farm lease of ten acres. The astute scouts saw the drill go through a cap rock thirteen feet thick, eight feet of which was oil bearing, and penetrated to 880 feet. The shale, topped at 860 feet, was rotten, and not regarded as very good pay. The well was held back temporarily with mud. In spite of the casting leaking the well was not brought in at this time. Later in the afternoon the casting dropped two feet. Watchful waiting finally won and at 11 o'clock that night this well bailed itself and came in doing 1,000 barrels. It commenced to do better immediately and now is consistently performing 1,200 barrels, filling all the available cypress and crowding the earthen storage tanks.

Being impressed with the fruitfulness of the field at this point, those wanting property adjoining are hastening to make offsets and the Taylor Oil and Gas company and the Corsicana Petroleum company erected derricks immediately south of the Caldwell company's producing well. The bringing in of this well 200 yards west of the Thrall Independent company's No. 1, on the Diebel farm, has had little influence on it, and this well is producing 500 barrels of high gravity crude. There are now twenty-six gushers in the field.

Williamson County Leads.

To be first in keeping with Williamson county's record—first in the cotton production, the most valuable product in the south; first in oil production, the most valuable product of the earth. Where fertile farms were formerly tilled, now the fields are dotted with derricks; tents flock the prairies as temporary places of abode and buildings of both substantial and temporary plans are going up on all sides. Thrall is rapidly taking on the proportions of a city. A $75,000 hotel is under project here, and many other enterprises are in contemplation.

Taylor-Thrall Field Fastest Developed.

Today the Taylor-Thrall oil field is a little more than two months of age, and yet the field has probably seen the fastest development of any field which has ever been brought in. This has been caused primarily because of the shallow depth at which the oil is found. Hundreds of the best oil men in the game were quickly attracted after the discovery, and developments were soon under way. Added to this are the splendid railway facilities and

A LINE NORTH AND SOUTH

Varying a few degrees northwest and southeast was the favorite of experienced talent from the start. After a careful survey of the field by our Geologist and consulting some of the most RELIABLE TALENT IN THE FIELD, we purchased for reasons best known to ourselves THIS TRACT ON BRUSHY CREEK, SOUTH OF THE DISCOVERY WELL.

Oil is a tramp and travels like water, under ground. CAN YOU MAKE WATER RUN UP HILL? Draw a straight line from the Gusher on the DIEBEL FARM to DISCOVERY HILL, then on DOWN SOUTH to BRUSHY CREEK, and you will strike our holdings. Our Geologist predicted Oil north of the Discovery Well. He was correct as has since been proven. He also predicted, and not without sufficient reason, that the

We believe he is right. We backed his judgment with money, and are ready and willing to go stronger if we could but find something nearer our location.

DON'T WAIT UNTIL BIG BRUSHY CREEK GUSHERS COME IN, and then try to buy one of our lots. We have sold four-fifths of the lots offered. ONLY A FEW LEFT THAT WE WILL PART WITH. We are only offering a part of our holdings, intending to develop the balance. BETTER GET YOUR LOT TODAY—ONLY $30.00 EACH—together with a certificate showing your share of the pro-rata of our undivided one-half interest in the first two wells this company agrees to drill.

THE TERMS ARE EASY—$7.50 CASH AND $7.50 PER MONTH

You get the benefit of the advice we paid for. We did not shut our eyes and guess. When we are sick we consult a good doctor; when in need of legal advice, a good lawyer. Following our policy of "Safety First," we CONSULTED AND PAID A GEOLOGIST THAT HAS MADE A THOROUGH STUDY OF OIL FIELDS to tell us when to buy.

the fact that a macadam road goes almost to the field.

With the end of the second month's activity in this field it has been expanded to over one mile in length and by way of which the drill has done in the last twenty-four hours promises to extend the field another mile.

Noack Gin Southwest of Discovery

Creates Interest.

The Mansfield, et al., well on the R. W. Konedschik property at Noack, one and one-half miles southwest from the discovery, is being drilled over the spot where Mr. Konedschik struck a shallow stratum of oil, in paying qualities, using a light, improvised rig, while drilling for water.

The rig is up so close to the gin that the gin boiler is used, and thus the rig is made the best in the field.

At 216 feet there were no indications that the well justified bailing. The bailer was run through the drill stem and the first bailer showed almost full, and each succeeding one improved nicely. Eighty feet of pay was gone through, and besides the oil there was a good gas showing. The caprock, penetrated at the depth, was two feet thick. Many think the well would be good for twenty-five barrels or better at the present time. The drill was again started, and will go deeper, in search for the deep stratum, which more than likely they will encounter at the same depth at which they found the oil in the Fuchs Hilltop. The formations are identical. In case nothing better is found, the well will be brought in from the 216-foot level.

The recent rains and wind have retarded to some extent operations in the field, a number of wells having been blown down, and other minor damage done. But work is going on unceasingly and new wells are starting daily.

QUEEN.

Today, "Pride of Jennico," Monday and Tuesday, "Little Sunset." Wednesday and Thursday, Betty Nansen in "Anna Karenina." Friday and Saturday, Mary Pickford in "Fanchon the Cricket."

"The Pride of Jennico," Today. Many stories of romance have been written in the last decade, but few have proved more popular than "The Pride of Jennico." James K. Hackett starred in it and various other nee idols appeared in the title role at various times. The Famous Players Stock company, directed by Daniel Frohman, have enacted the latest version of this interesting story and it will be seen at the Queen today. "The Pride of Jennico" abounds with thrilling scenes. Throughout the play, a charming love story is carried, which has an ending that is absolutely unexpected. That the Famous Players have produced it and that it is on the Paramount program is evidence enough that both acting and photography are of the very best.

"Little Sunset" Monday and Tuesday. Baseball time is here and with it is the Bosworth-Oliver Moroso production of Charles E. Van Loan's famous tention to his young and beautiful wife.

Anna, though she respects her husband and adores her little son, yet craves the love which she feels is the right of every woman, and when Count Wrongsky, a handsome young cavalry officer, enters her life and offers her the admiration and devotion which are denied her in her home, she eagerly grasps her chance for happiness. The inevitable result follows. Rich and beautiful though she be and of exalted social position, Anna finds that she cannot defy the conventions. She is cast off by her husband and denied a sister of her son. Her former friends desert her; she is an outcast from society where she is formerly reigned as queen. At last she even begins to distrust her lover, the man whom she gave up everything. Weary of her unequal struggle, and without position or reputation, Anna finds this last blow too much to bear and she seeks in death a release from worldly sorrows.

Mary Pickford in "Fanchon the Cricket," Friday and Saturday.

For many generations, "Fanchon the Cricket" has pleased countless audiences. The play is one of those old plays which grow with age. But it was chosen for the Famous Players to produce the play with dainty little Mary Pickford, the idol of the screen, as Fanchon. The Famous Players production, on the Paramount program, will be shown at the Queen Friday and Saturday. Lottie Pickford, Mary's little sister, who is herself achieving considerable distinction as an actress appears in the supporting company as Madelon.

Mary Pickford is utterly fascinating in the role of Fanchon, the mischievous imp of the storm, and by-word of the village, who, under the subtle influence of love, gradually develops a goodness of disposition and a general bent toward virtuous principles whereby she eventually gains the heart of the man she loves, and triumphs gloriously over the envy, hatred and uncharitableness of the rustic community of which she had been a despised and rejected member. This is a naturalness about her portrayal, a sparkling, quaint originality—that is absolutely irresistible, and "Fanchon the Cricket" will undoubtedly be considered as notable—an achievement as her memorable characterization of "Tess of the Storm Country."

HIPPODROME.

Program for the Week.

Sunday—"The Love Liar," fourth complete moving picture novel in the "Who Pays" series. "Strictly Neutral," Vitagraph comedy. Hearst-Selig-Essanay feature with Anita Stewart.

Monday and Tuesday—"The Juggernaut," five-part Vitagraph-Lubin-Selig-Essanay feature with Anita Stewart.

Friday and Saturday—"Strathmore," or "Brought by His Own Hand," four-part Mutual Masterpicture with Charles Cleary, Alfred Paget, Francilia Billington and Irene Hunt.

The story first appeared in the Saturday Evening Post and was later included by Mr. Van Loan in one of his collections. "Little Sunset" is the son of a ball player, who is adopted by a ball team as a mascot. Up to the time he had been "signed," the team was in a slump, but the lad brought luck, which is retained by the aggregation all the way through the story.

Betty Nansen in "Anna Karenina," Wednesday and Thursday.

Better known as the royal actress, Betty Nansen will be presented by William Fox at the Queen, Wednesday and Thursday, in Count Tolstoi's masterpiece, "Anna Karenina." This is a heart-gripping story of a love-starved woman's struggle for happiness. Anna Karenina, the heroine of the remarkable drama, is the wife of a Russian diplomat high in the councils of his country. This man, cold, reserved and wholly wrapped up in his duties, gives neither time nor at-

"The Love Liar."

"The Love Liar," the fourth complete moving picture novel in a series of twelve on vital questions of life, is offered at the Hippodrome today, only, with Ruth Roland and Henry King.

As suggested in the six stories published in last week's Waco Times-Herald, "The Love Liar" is a tale of a woman who rushes in where love feared to tread and of a senile invalid, who thought he was not; and also of a young man whose speed there in the flesh to hear their trials.

Have you ever seen a pretty young girl on the way to happiness, to the very fullness of joy, and seen her dashed to death? That is the sight that awaits you at the railroad wreck, of which all the town is talking.

Have you seen a girl, young, beautiful, innocent, expiate the sins of one of her parents in a grim, sudden, inexplicable way?

You have watched a love affair in its earliest and most beautiful stage, the stage that is most delicate, most enchanting, because as yet no word has been spoken, when looks alone have been eloquent? And have you seen that beautiful love flower blighted by the frost of death?

Have you ever looked on while a man regretted what he had sowed? Looked on while the chains forged by his own act tightened around him until they crushed him?

All these you will see in the big railroad wreck that occurs at the Hippodrome. The Vitagraph company furnishes the spectacle, which is a mountain peak of attainment in the brilliant character of the Vitagraph company of America. Furthermore, you will see a spectacle so real, so dramatic, that it holds the audience breathless.

The train bearing the railroad president's daughter and her fellow passengers, near a bridge, the timbers of which the company have allowed to rot "to save expense." The railroad president, learning of the situation, tries to intercept the train, and by his signals stop it. But the train rushes steadily on to its doom. The girl's face, pure, serene, beautiful, shines starkly out in the dusk of the car. The train swings boldly upon the bridge. The bridge totters. It rotten timbers part. The train pauses, trembling, human-like, at the door, then plunges into the water below.

The scene of the attempted rescue, of the white faces turned toward the sky, of the girl with inky, dripping hair and closed eyes, being laid beside her father, who has died of the horror he witnessed is grim tragedy, but real, powerfully true.

"The Absentee."

Robert Edeson, as "Power," in the allegorical Mutual Masterpicture, "The Absentee," showing at the Hippodrome Wednesday and Thursday, has given the part the most inspired performance of his career.

It is a story of big business and shows what is happening all about us in business every day. The forepart of the film, shown in the prologue, shows "Power," "Might," "Ambition," "Contentment," "Vanity" and "Justice" in the path of man in search of happiness and success. The later scenes show the characters represented in modern times where "Power," the Absentee, leaves "Might" in charge of his factory. As a result the management becomes better, "Might" and "Evil," the scale of wages is lowered and under the terrible conditions that follow, we are shown two innocent girls, "Happiness" and "Innocence," suffering. They go astray when they meet "Evil" and "Contentment." The character represented by the father of one of the girls is crazed to such an extent that he ends his was greater than his control and how it lost him the game.

Born with the proverbial silver spoon in her mouth, reared in the most opulent surroundings of luxury, the lady did not know what it meant to make ends meet. Her ends had always luxuriously overlapped. But the time came when the lady had to choose between dread and poverty and a wedding ceremony with a rich invalid whose only knowledge of youth was a distant memory. She was led to the altar where she mouthed the "till death do us part" fare, and when to live her life with a man whose wealth was nothing, nothing about him was gained. To live with a man she didn't love would under ordinary circumstances, have been difficult enough—it was the natural aversion of youth and age; but when added to this, she found she had fallen desperately in love with her husband's young medical attendant, her life became a tortuous labyrinth of lies and fears of apprehension. It is at the point where "The Love Liar" makes its greatest appeal to your insistent demand for unflinching realism in the place of the usual lollipop romanticism. It is just this reverse twist in the most unexpected places that makes the "Who Pays" series the most talked of pictures from the Maine coast to the Golden Gate.

"The Juggernaut."

"The Juggernaut," five-part Vitagraph blue ribbon feature with Anita Stewart, Earle Williams and Julia Swayne Gordon, which will be shown at the Hippodrome Monday and Tuesday, is the greatest achievement of the Vitagraph company, which is great in achievement.

Ralph Ince, the producer of "The Juggernaut," has excelled even his past best, which was so clearly set forth in "A Million Bid," "413," and other memorable moving pictures shown here.

Dashing at headlong speed a locomotive and three cars plunge over the bridge into the icy water hundreds of feet below, is the catastrophe occurring near the climax. Nothing is more exciting than a real train wreck and the next best thriller is a motion picture wreck, such as that which occurs in "The Juggernaut." One sits nearly an hour watching the film present a story of love, rivalry and heroism and the audience applauds as loudly as though the heroic actors are

He realized that such a film would convince civilians, as nothing else could, of how thoroughly the navy inculcates self-reliance and resourcefulness, quickness of eye and steadieness of nerve. Besides it shows how patriotic and reverent for the flag are impressed, how respect for duly constituted authority is instilled and how to live healthfully—considerations which are too often ignored by so many colleges and other universities.

"Among the wild tribes of the Philippines Islands," is another of the exclusive features to be shown. It includes typical scenes of some of the most important wild tribes and their manner of life, interesting peculiarities, etc., among which are the ceremonies attendant upon head-hunting.

REPORT OF SANITARY DEPARTMENT MADE

COMMISSIONER COCKCROFT SUBMITS INVENTORY OF EQUIPMENT NOW ON HAND.

Mackey Park Found in Bad Condition. Census Being Taken of Surface Closets in the City.

The following report on the condition and the amount of the equipment of the sanitary department, and of the progress of the sanitary survey, has been submitted by Commissioner Cockcroft.

"To the Honorable Mayor and Board of Commissioners: Gentlemen—At your request, I herewith submit inventory of equipment in our department and also report of condition of same generally. We have 25 pieces of stock, 13 mules and 12 horses; 2 street carts, 1 double dump wagon, 2 street finishers, 1 street mopper, 5 trash wagons (single), 1 trash wagon (double), 2 passenger wagons, 2 white wing carts, 5 single sets of harness, 1 double set of harness for trash wagons, 5 single sets of harness for dump cart, 2 double sets of harness for street work, 10 single sets of harness for sweepers (used as sweepers).

"Everything in our department has been in very bad condition, men, horses and shoeing and condition of stock has been a very serious drawback to us. We have some equipment that is perfectly used and can only be made profitable by a large expenditure of money. Some of the sprinklers have been sold at a small price, and some are loaned to private contractors and also the county. All tools, such as brooms and shovels, for street work were almost entirely worn out, and park tools also. We have been compelled to buy one one-horse mower at a cost of $35, and have also had to repair the cycle mower before we could use it. Also hoes, rakes, shears and locks, all tool boxes, and have had ten boxes repaired so that all tools can be safely kept. We found all parks in a bad condition, partly on account of rains, and we have had to hire two horses extra for mowers, but we now have arranged to use our own stock, and save that extra cost.

"We have also cut out all undergrowth from both banks of Waco creek with convict labor, which greatly enhances the beauty of the Carroll and Harrington parks. We have also taken care of the aftermath of the storm, such as cutting away and hauling off limbs and trash, working on Sunday for this purpose.

Census Under Way.

"There has been some agitation and controversy as to abolishing this department and letting it be done by a private contractor. This we feel could not be done without an extra cost of at least $75 a month to the city, and would double or treble the cost of cleaning, thereby working a hard expense to every one concerned, especially the poorer people. We have placed some men to work taking the city street by street, locating these closer, getting the number of the streets, the tenants' names and the owners' names. We hope by this means to collect the license from every owner of property with an overground closet. In other words, we expect to make this department self-sustaining, and recommend the abolishment of the ordinance.

Rose, a girl they both love, now shows a preference for the luckier one, vowing to get into the navy and work his way up to be the equal of Reggie. Reggie goes through Annapolis and Jack works his way up from a common sailor to warrant officer and later to ensign. Rose marries Reggie. Reggie begins to show his real nature and earns the dislike of his friends and brother officers by his drinking and gambling. Phyllis, meanwhile, has nursed thoughts of vengeance through the years and finally manages to ruin her husband. She goes to him and says in the face. In a drunken quarrel Gardner tells Reggie he is not his son and in the struggle that follows succumbs to heart failure. Rose has overheard and awaits the opportune moment to compel Reggie to make amends to Jack.

Returning to his ship that night Reggie has a quarrel with Jack and strikes him. This and his past actions bring upon him the wrath of his superiors and he is dismissed from the service. Ennis, Herzog and other foreigners are plotting to assist their government, which is on the verge of a war with the United States. They seize upon Reggie and ultimately gain his consent to co-operate with them. Jack is to carry important government papers and by working upon Phyllis' sympathy for her supposed son he manages to get her to help him steal the papers from Jack. She does so, thinking she is helping her son out of his disgrace. After Reggie has set several mines in the harbor gets away in a motorboat with the papers. Rose, failing to find Reggie, tells Jack of his parentage and is overthrown by Phyllis. Realizing that she is in reality bringing a terrible catastrophe upon the head of her real son she tells Jack the terrible predicament he is in. Jack starts after Reggie in another motor boat. Phyllis, remembering the switch and mined harbor, rushes to undo Reggie's crime. She throws all the switches in time but one. The mine explodes and Reggie is killed. Jack gets back his papers and is reunited with his mother, happy in the thought that later Rose will consent to his marriage.

"Wrong Flat," a Lawless one-part comedy, presented by the World Film company, is laughable to the extreme, for a pair of newlyweds go up against the real thing in the way of home-making, staying out late, jealousy, compromising situations, etc., all coming out at the end in the most satisfactory manner.

We carry a large stock of Paints, Varnishes and Glass, and are selling the consumer at wholesale. Ring our Paint Department, phone 2009.—(Adv.)

and commissioners to co-operate with us in the endeavor to enlist the sympathy and co-operation of the citizenry, that they may facilitate the work of our trash wagons by placing all trash in boxes, tubs or some other receptacle, that the drivers may be delayed as little as possible, thereby putting them in a position to cover much more territory and consequently having a cleaner city. Another thing we ask is that the ordinance regulating the placing of autos at the curbing may be enforced on those owning and driving autos, so that our gutter men may have sufficient room for the cleaning of same.

"We have found the sanitary and scavenger department in a very deplorable condition; from the best information we can get, we feel sure that the city has more than 3,000 surface closets, and that an ordinance had been passed assessing a license of $2 a year for the maintenance of the department. The first six months there were less than 300 licenses. The last four months to April 1, 1915, there have been only 450 paid. This department is sustained at a cost of nearly $30 a month, six months' license amounts to only $150, or 25¢ a month. We endeavor to clean these closets twice a month, making the cost of each cleaning only 12½¢.

Census Under Way.

"There has been some agitation and controversy as to abolishing this department and letting it be done by a private contractor. "We hope this honorable body will co-operate with us in this undertaking.

2 Drops of "GETS-IT," Out Comes the Corn!

It's the World's Wonder; Never Falls.
You'll make goo-goo eyes at your feet,
after you use "GETS-IT" and you'll find the places where those blanket corns used to be, just as smooth as your cheek.

"How Wide Is a 'GETS-IT' Smile? Well, a Good Deal Over 2 Feet!"

There's no corn or callus among the millions of feet in the world that "GETS-
IT" can't remove—there's no escape.
"GETS-IT" is the new way, the simple, common-sense, sure way. It does away with greasy ointments, soap, paraffin, tonic rings, blisters, knives, scissars, razors, gels, and the limping and the painful pigeon-toe walk of so many corn-pestered people. All you do is put 2 drops of "GETS-IT" on—the corn shrivels up and goes by. Nothing else in the world does what "GETS-IT" does. Millions are using it.
There's no pain, no trouble, no changing shoes because of corns.
"GETS-IT" is sold by druggists every-

HOW ADMINISTRATION FEELS.

President and Friends Are Encouraged by Roosevelt Trial.

President Wilson and his friends are watching the Syracuse trial with unusual political interest, especially as to its effect upon the political future of Colonel Roosevelt.

The white house politicians look upon the rising of popular interest in Colonel Roosevelt's connection with the campaign of 1916 with more than usual interest. They believe that the result will materially affect the result and the present friends insist that they do not feel disengaged over the sudden manifestation of interest by the Colonel in the 1916 campaign.

The process to believe now that he is capable of making less trouble for the democrats and more for the republicans as a republican than as a democrat.

The process, however, is probably the result of an effort on the part of democrats to convince themselves that the republican party will be weak and united that divided. The democrats these days are grasping at straws and there is no doubt that one of the strongest hopes is that there will be trouble in the G.
O. P.

The president's friends are following the daily reports of the Syracuse trial with keen interest and relish. They concede that up to yesterday the Colonel had things pretty much his own way in view of the Platt-Roosevelt correspondence as regarded as harmful to the Colonel.

The fact that Colonel Roosevelt has taken up the challenge to the administration recently on its foreign policy and its weak national defense has increased the administration's interest in his future political activities.—Washington
Correspondence of the New York Sun.

Odd Confession.

A well-known man made a curious experience which is well worth relating. It was his custom to point his sermon with either, "Dearly beloved brethren" or "No of the congregation asked him if he had any objection to this.

He asked him why he always preached to the gentlemen and never to the ladies.

"My dear lady," said the beaming vicar,

EFFECT OF WAR ON US MOOTED QUESTION

THIS COUNTRY WILL PROFIT
WHETHER STRUGGLE IS PRO-LONGED OR TERMINATED.

BUSINESS STILL EXPANDING

If War Continues Till Big Wheat Crop Comes In, Europe Will Have to Buy at High Prices.

(Chicago Correspondent in New York Evening Post)

In western business circles, as on Wall street, the question is debated nowadays, with curious variations of opinion, whether the United States, financially and industrially, stands to benefit more by prolongation of the European war or by its early termination. We are certainly finding, in this part of the country, that the war itself is having a very different influence on our own business situation than anyone could have imagined three or four months ago. Today the stimulating effect of high prices, both for grain and for war materials, is spreading steadily to other lines of trade.

There are many good business men who now take the position that the struggle in Europe is bound to be long-continued, and that this fact, if combined with a large wheat crop in America this year (of which Europe would then have to take at high prices all the surplus we can spare), will of itself be highly beneficial on business generally. Some of them talk of an actual "business boom" as a result of it. At all events, the immense orders for war supplies are creating better business in many other industries. In particular, the effect of this new trade is seen in the buying of steel and of all materials that enter into the making of war material. These are orders out for over $30,000,000 of lumber for making boxes to be used in shipping the ammunition; also orders for nearly as many million feet of wagon boards for use by the allies.

All this must be set over against the lately overwhelming conviction in western business circles that the prospect of trade复兴 depended on the outlook for European peace, and that the ending of the war would be the real signal for expansion to begin.
But, recent events have brought a more general admission that the exact effects of peace itself on our own situation are a matter of considerable guesswork. For one thing, the factories that have been called to make war material for the fighting nations will naturally have to return to legitimate industrial lines for orders.

Those doing a domestic business would look for more orders on a peace basis, which are expected to offset the loss from war orders.
But a readjustment would be necessary, and as to how long it will take, or how far-reaching it will be, no two firms or merchants will agree. Furthermore, it is believed that, should peace come before this year's grain harvest is gathered, it would help save a larger percentage of foreign crops than would be possible if the fighting should continue.
Europe will have to be helped out with large supplies in any event, but how much will be required in the six or twelve months following peace or continued warfare is merely a guess.

Tangible Evidences.

Meantime, and perhaps regardless of the question of peace or continued war, mercantile business is enlarging both for immediate and for war supplies. The more cheerful tone the past two weeks is immediately the result of the favorable crop prospects, for a second big wheat crop, sold at high prices, would create a purchasing power greater perhaps than the west has ever known, and should eventually bring in such orders for goods as would keep manufacturers and jobbers working overtime.

Railroads are coming into the market for supplies, mostly having deferred to buy until absolutely forced to resume it. The Chicago and Northwestern has orders out for $3,000,000 of equipment. The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul will spend $2,000,000 in building cars at its shops and $3,- 000,000 in elevating its tracks from Chicago to Evanston. These, following the $30,000,000 order recently foreshadowed by the railroads, are the only the forerunners of enlarged requirements.

Several other railroads are showing a disposition to come into the market. Within a short time, moreover, 10,000 men have been given work in various sections of the country by the railroads.

A New Decalogue.

There has been published of late many business decalogues, but one recently published in a trade paper and credited to one Graham Hood is probably the best. His ten business commandments are:

1. Thou shalt not wait for something to go up, but thou shalt pull off thy coat and go to work that thou mayest prosper in the affairs and make the word "failure" spell "success."

2. Thou shalt not be content to go about thy business looking like a loafer, for thou shouldst know that thy personal appearance is better than a letter of credit.

3. Thou shalt not try to make excuses, nor shalt thou say to those who chide thee, "I didn't think."

4. Thou shalt not wait to be told what thou shalt do, nor in what manner thou shalt do it, for thus may thy days be long in the job which fortune hath given thee.

5. Thou half not fail to maintain thy own integrity, for thou shalt become a better man.

6. Thou shalt not covet the other fellow's job, nor his salary, nor the position that he hath gained by his own hard labor.

7. Thou shalt not fail to live within thy income, nor shalt thou contract any debts when thou canst not see thy way to pay them.

8. Thou shalt not be afraid to blow thine own horn, for he who faileth to blow his own horn at the proper occasion riseth nobody standing ready to blow it for him.

9. Thou shalt not hesitate to say "No" when thou meanest "No," nor shalt thou fail to remember that there are times when it is unsafe to bind thyself by hasty judgment.

10. Thou shalt give every man a square deal. This is the last commandment, and there is no other like unto it. Upon this commandment hangs all the law and profits of the business world.

Chicago saloon licenses which a year or so ago were worth nearly $3,000 are worth a little over $1,000 now.

body's word for it—they looked into it themselves.

They found the Maxwell to be a handsome, powerful, easy-riding car.

They compared it with cars that sell at double the Maxwell's price.
They found that the Maxwell contained every worth-while up-to-date high-priced car feature.

They tested the Maxwell on hills and on the level on really tough roads.

They made it prove its ability to run at low cost over all sorts of roads.

Then they began buying and talking about the Maxwell.

To-day 38,000 enthusiastic people are driving these Maxwell's. Of these a great big percentage owned other makes of cars before they bought their Maxwell's.

Use your common sense when you buy your automobile. Don't be talked into an extravagant car or a car that hasn't had the "acid test"
of time.

Don't let them experiment at your expense.

Read This List of Expensive Features. The 1915 Maxwell Has These Features And Many Others.

Attractive Streamline Body
Pure streamline body; graceful crown fenders, with all rivets concealed. All the grace, style and "snap" that you will find in any of the highest priced cars.

Double-Shell Radiator with Shock Absorbing Device

The Maxwell radiator is of handsome design, gracefully curved, and it is not to be troubled with the trouble of a double shell type and its ample cooling capacity. The radiator is mounted to the frame by means of shock absorbing device on each side, which reduces the radiators to the road and minimizes the possibility of damage by roughness of the road. The shock absorbing device also minimizes the possibility of radiators leaking.

Left side steer with gear shifting lever in center of driving compartment—center control—has been accepted by leading makers of expensive automobiles as the safest and most comfortable for the driver; that is why the Maxwell has it. The Maxwell is so easy to drive and control that a child can handle it.

Three-Speed Sliding Gear Transmission

All high priced cars have a sliding gear transmission.
The Maxwell has a full grown 5-passenger body. The front seat is adjustable, you never need to have the car stopped to adjust it. This makes the car really comfortable for the driver. No cramped legs for tall people or uncomfortable reaching for short people. Most drivers' seats are made to fit anyone—so fit no one.

Low "Up-keep" Carburetor

The carburetor used on the Maxwell was especially designed for it after long and severe tests under every conceivable condition. Some tourists by the dozen have driven their Maxwell cars through all kinds of weather and conditions. Different sections of the country have proved its efficiency, its quick response to throttle and its extremely low consumption of gasoline. It has been termed the "low up-keep" carburetor.

Irreversible Steering Gear

The greatest margin of safety has been provided in the steering gear of the 1915 Maxwell. The Maxwell irreversible steering mechanism is one of the expensive worm-and-gear types. It is so positive and certain in its action that it is impossible to turn it the wrong way. This makes the car really comfortable for the driver. No
cramped legs for tall people or uncomfortable reaching for short people. Most drivers' seats are made to fit anyone—so fit no one.

Heavy Car Comfort

What surprises most people is the smooth, buoyant riding qualities of the Maxwell. The sprung suspension of the 1915 Maxwell is the same combination of long semi-elliptic front springs and the three-quarter elliptic rear springs that is used on most heavy weight high priced cars.

The Maxwell offers you the best in the class of the highest priced machines at a fifth of their cost.

One Size of Tire—Anti-Skid on Rear

The Maxwell car is one of the easiest cars in the world on tires. Maxwell owners carry but one size tire on all four tires—35x3.5. Economy is the name of the game. Economy is the name of the game.

A Dependable Electric Starter

For $55 extra, you can have your Maxwell delivered equipped with the famous Simms-Huff electric starter. This starter is efficient, trouble proof and easily operated.

HOW TEXAS APPEARED ABOUT 70 YEARS AGO

INTERESTING ACCOUNT OF AN OVERLAND TRIP FROM AR- KANSAS IN 1847.

Waco, Tex., May 7, 1915.

To the Waco Morning News:

I read a nice article in the News recently, written by Mrs. Marshall, which calls vividly to my mind incidents that occurred in this state in the long ago. These things caused me to think of the happy days of my youth, and I thought if you would allow me space in your valuable columns that I, too, would make a contribution, not hoping to write even a counterpart to her production, but might say something that would interest not only the pioneers who have nearly all passed away, but some of the later arrivals who may remember about as much of the olden days as did the first settlers.

In 1847 we lived in Fayetteville, Ark., a new and very rough country, I being only eight years old at that time. My father had contemplated going further south to find a warmer and more genial climate. Much had been said of the opportunities and possibilities of the new country, so he decided on Texas.

He soon had small band made up of three families, six men and as many wagons, all good and new, and as many teams, all in the best of condition, and all was soon made ready to go.

On the tenth day of October the same year the drivers mounted the wagons, the whips cracked, the wheels turned and we were on our road to Texas, where the honey-ponds flowed and the fritter trees rustled on the banks of every stream.

We traveled fifty miles through the Ozark mountains, crossing the Arkansas river, a beautiful, bright, flowing stream, at Van Buren, a few good old town, with the steamboats skimming around with the grace and ease of a swan. Six miles further on we passed through Ft. Smith, the prettiest and best city in the state.

Here we entered the Indian Territory and had to travel 200 miles through the Indian country. A few of them living close to the line could speak a few words of broken English, but they looked very much like heathens, having advanced but a short step from barbarism.

They had been to Scullyville, to their council grounds to draw their annuities and were then on their way home, traveling in little squads one right after the other, following the little paths not more than a foot wide. Only a few lived on the main road. They lived in little huts built of poles, chinked and daubed, and with wooden chimneys, and al the English they were master of was "hammamley," which meant "six bits," the price of a bushel of corn. Most of them lived back in the mountain retreats, where the watchful gaze of the pale face never disturbed their equanimity.

We went rolling along despite awful rough roads and had to double teams at the river and creek banks, passing only one Indian village on the way. We camped near an old Indian's wigwam and he was a cripple. We had a large dog that was foot-sore and could go no further. He asked that we give him the dog, which we did. He was asked what he would do with him. He said: "Eh! Dod heap fat; me eat him."

The next place was Boggy Depot, an Indian village. The Indians paid little attention to us. They had salt works there, and made their own salt. We then went on and struck Red river at Old Warren, on the west side of the river. The river was too deep to ford and the boat was out on the sand bar. We called for the fryerman—Mr. Kitchen who came over quickly in his little boat to ascertain what we wanted. Father told him that we were on our way to Texas, but that the river was impeding our progress. Mr. Kitchen said he had a boat a hundred yards from the river on the sand bar, bottom up, but if we would help him put it in the river that he would quickly set us over in the promised land. My father told him he had been hunting for a bargain, and as that was the best offered that he would accept, and the work commenced at once. At sundown the quit and they had not yet reached the river. Mr. Kitchen said as there was no sign of a storm approaching that we had as well camp on the bar, which we did. The teams were attended to the tents stretched, all was made ready and we sat down to a good old Arkansas supper. Considering our appetites, we thought the supper would have done credit to the "Riggins." All were tired and quickly retired to our place of repose and soon were sleeping soundly in the arms of Morphus. No dreams of approaching danger disturbed our slumber, but ere the morning stars arose consternation reigned supreme in the camp. But in the latter hours of the night an alarm was given—a storm was coming rapidly from the north. Every one was active. The lightning was growing more vivid, and the detonations of thunder were closer and heavier. Suddenly a volcano seemed to be hissing over our heads and when the crash came it sounded like a platoon of German artillery had exploded on the field of battle. The families were rushed to the second bottoms, which were not very far, and some large piles of drift wood set on fire, which was now grateful to our benefit. Then the horses and wagons had to be brought out. The rain had been falling in torrents, but fortunately the storm was of short duration. The river had risen seven feet and when the last wagon came out, the horses were standing in water up to their knees.

When the sun rose everything looked new and bright as a May day. After eating a metropolitan breakfast we commenced work on the boat. It took until evening to turn the boat over and bail out the water, but in a very short time longer we landed in Texas.

The next morning we moved on and about a mile from the river we came to Mr. Dugger's and inquired if we could get some corn. He asked, "Where are you moving to?" We told him to Texas. He said: "Yes, drive down to my corn pens and get all you want." He stopped at the wagons talking. Seeing some pecular bones, mother asked him what they were. He said: "Them's Indian bones." She asked, "How did they come to be out here?" He said: "The boys killed 'em." She said: "Didn't you bury them?" He said: "Naw, they were too mean to bury. The girls tried to make soap out of them, but they were too mean to make soap."

From there we launched out on the prairies of Texas, there being little timber there, even on the branches. Game was abundant. We counted five hundred deer in a half day's travel. The buffalo roamed at will and the mustangs pranced gracefully over the hills. They ran over a colt and my father caught it and raised it. It made a gentle, useful little animal.

McKinney was the first town we reached. It was a small village and looked old. The next was Dallas, which was just a wide place in the road, with a big stone on one side and a jail on the other, with a six-inch opening between two logs, with heavy iron bars bolted across it. It seemed to me there were but few houses, probably fifty, and they all looked to be old.

We had a bad crossing at the river. The road ran sloping down the bank, which greatly endangered the wagons turning over in the river.

At Chambers Creek, now Waxahachie, we had a repetition of the Red river storm, blowing our tents and other things out into the brush. That we had been hunting turkeys on Sunday.

Bastrop was the next point reached. There were seven widows there whose husbands had been killed by Indians prowling around the houses at night. There we stopped and rented a farm from Ham White, the father of Ham White Jr., who afterward was known as the lone highwayman, who robbed stage coaches in the seventies single-handed.

Mrs. Marshall wrote quite a pleasant eulogy on the soldiers of Waco, but there were others quite as deserving. I think it was right to render to Caesar all that was Caesar's, but I think also the good, loyal and noble women of the Southern Confederacy should receive the plaudits and admiration of all the world.

As there was no road from there to Waco, we had to cross the river at the Falls. There was a little farm there, but I saw no house except two log store houses, one on each side of the river. One went by the laconic name of "Bucksnort," the other had a sign printed in blazing capitals which stood out in bold relief and said "Doe Bleat."

Then we came on to Little River, where Major Bryant lived. He had a little fort made of logs set in the ground perpendicularly and made fast with peacock pins. When his neighbors (only about a dozen) heard that the Indians were in they moved into the fort and closed the gate. Then two men could guard it while he and the other men would run the Indians out.

The next night we camped in the Gabriel bottom under the tall elm trees. Next morning the turkeys were gobbling over our heads with that hideous noise that made the wailing ring. The guns were quickly gotten out and when a rifle fired a turkey fell. So we soon had plenty,

but imagine our chagrin when told best friends." They were just as deserving, and perhaps more so, than the valiant soldiers who carried the musket or wielded the sword. They deserved more than they received, and they were entitled to a crown that would be always fresh and fade not away. Many of them have left us and passed over the river, resting sweetly in peace under the trees. They should never be forgotten.

Very respectfully,
J. M. SPENCER.

And He Was!

Just because a man is an officer in the Territorials, it doesn't mean to say he can ride a horse.

At least, that was the case with Col. Knut, of the Tutleton Terriers. An inspection was to him a nightmare. So, when the general commanding came along, Col. Knut sat his horse uneasily.

At the first bang of the drum the colonel's horse started two-stepping. With the fifth he tarred. The colonel set his feet and hung on grimly.

The soldiers got mighty excited. Would he stick on or not? Anxious to see the fun they pushed forward, until the front rank looked like a football crowd.

"Ease off, there!" yelled the sergeant angrily.

"No, 'e ain't," retorted an enthusiastic watcher; "but 'e will be in a minute!"—London Opinion.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

What They Are Doing in Various Phases of Their Work in Texas

Reported Weekly in The Waco Morning News by Miss Kate Friend, Editor, 525 Terrace Row, Waco, Texas.

ALL TEXAS AROUSED TO HEALTH CONDITION

The Southern Sociological congress, which is now in progress in Houston, finds every city pulpit today preaching the gospel of health from advanced specialists throughout the south. Men, more than seventy advanced workers along all lines of health promotion, are the speakers in this great congress. When ex-Governor Mann of Virginia opens his program, the greater health crusade ever undertaken in the south will begin. Each delegate is supposed to return home to launch a health campaign locally. Houston proposes to be the beginning of a movement, not simply a convention, but the beginning of a health wave which will engulf the entire south.

THE SECOND DISTRICT MEETS WITH WAXAHACHIE HOSTESS

The report from the Second district session in Waxahachie is, that this is the most notable in all the thirteen sessions for large attendance, for harmonious action, for excellent reports, for enlarged activities, and, lastly, for the attractive appearance of the women.

The district executive board meeting preceded the general assembly of delegates.

In this, all phases of club work was discussed, many valuable ideas being exchanged. For two hours, the district chairmen held a round table, which proved quite informing, each giving the others the plan and scope of her especial committee.

Officers Elected.

The result of the election gives for the Second district:

President, Mrs. R. H. Garrison of Denton; first vice president, Mrs. J. H. Lovejoy of McKinney; second vice president, Mrs. E. Leigh of Waxahachie; secretary-treasurer, to be named by the president.

MRS. MAGGIE BARRY TO BE AT CHAUTAUQUA

The advance notice from the Boulder chautauqua has been distributed.

This contains one paragraph of personal interest to the club women, which is, that Mrs. Maggie Barry, vice president at large for Texas, will preside over five educational round tables during chautauqua season.

These five sessions will bear upon two general topics, first, "Some New

Fundamentals in the Mental, Physical and Spiritual Culture of the Child,"

second, "The Rural School—Our

Great Responsibility and How Are

We Meeting It?"

THE HOUSEWIVES' LEAGUE ACTIVE IN HOUSTON

The practical procedure in the Housewives' league of Houston certainly deserves the emulation of women all over Texas. We talk pure food

A Queenly Complexion in a Few Days' Time — and Other Beauty Secrets

Valeska Suratt, the Theatrical Star, Gives Some of the Secrets Which Have Made Her Famous for Her Self-Made Beauty.

By MISS VALESKA SURATT.

BEAUTY is more a matter of "skin" than anything else. For this reason beauty is more easy to attain now than it has ever been before. Yet there are millions of women who are positively making it hard for themselves and it can be seen that the thousand and one preparations sold for the purpose of beautifying the skin help to make it hard instead of easy for the women themselves. The trouble is that the ingredients are nearly all the same, and when you have tried one you have practiced.

Enough Eggel for about a dozen of these splendid head-washes can be secured at any drug store at a moderate price.

W.O.T.H.Y.—Constant hair-falling means early baldness. You can prevent it quickly and absolutely. Hair tonics are of very little, if any, value against this condition. A mixture of one ounce of beta-quinoil with half an ounce of oil and a half-ounce of almond or a full pint of olive oil instead of desired, will when liberally used do in a short time all that you have tried to do for four months past. This gives the hair nourishing life and vigor to hair stops dandruff completely and you will not longer find handfuls of hair coming out at every combing. Try it by all means. This makes the most economical and effective hair treatment known.

MISS I. M. T.—Steaming the face is never successful against blackheads. Dieting will do no good. It is too impossible to wash out all the tiny blackheads, but may remove them all in a few moments, much to your surprise, by simply sprinkling powdered neroxin on a hot wet sponge and rubbing the blackheads with it. You will find that the blackheads have entirely vanished even to the most minute ones. This is a formula worth remembering and using. It never fails.

DEBORAH G. S.—Dissolving away superfluous or wild hairs is the only way to remove them. You simply injure the skin by using the burning depilatories usually sold. By using simple sulfide solution the hair is completely and thoroughly removed, and no mark or red spot is left and no one can tell you have used anything for removing superfluous hair. No matter how stiff, soft, hairy or light the hair, or whether the skin is extremely sensitive or not. It removes perfectly and in a few moments.

WILLING—If anything can develop the bust this certainly should, as it has been very successful in many cases.

Of course you know that development can always be assured. Add two ounces of ruetone and half a cup of water to a half pint of cold water. Mix thoroughly and take two tablespoonfuls after each meal and at bedtime. I would advise the use of tablets, pills or mechanical instruments. The formula given above is perfectly safe.

We again call your attention to the greatest money-making opportunity that has yet been placed before the public. A few dollars invested with this Company can easily make you rich, for our holdings are the best to be had. When you invest your money with this Company you are investing with men who are responsible business men and are thoroughly posted in the oil business. Our President, Mr. J. B. Cicero, of San Antonio, has had many years of successful experience in Tampico, and other large oil fields. Our Vice-President and General Manager, Mr. F. J. BRITISH SOLDIER AT THE FRONT
WRITES BACK HOME TO
"MOTHER."

(From a copy of the letter.)

April 11, 1915.

Dear Mother: Last Saturday notice was telephoned that an aeroplane was passing. We all rushed out of the block-house and saw one coming toward us at a tremendous speed from about 300 feet up. Suddenly one of the auto aircraft guns went bang. There was a crash, a puff of cotton wool smoke, and down she came head foremost into the marsh, breaking her wheels and engine. Two naval officers got out. To reach them we had to put boards over the marsh. It appeared they were due to meet a German man who had forgotten to notice the fort down the river, as reported. Last Sunday a boat arrived with a bombhole through her, but it was not in the papers. When we paraded on Tuesday we stuffed our haversacks full of bread and meat and had to carry our full pack and two blankets rolled around our necks, so that we looked like removal men. We marched six miles and entrained for _____, where we met with detachments about every mile. It was then about 2-30 o'clock. We stood in a little side street till 5 o'clock. By that time the whole brigade had assembled (4,500 men and 400 wagons), while we were standing a girl in a shop brought me some cigars and preserved ginger and finished by tying a piece of her ribbon around my rifle.

Then we started. We had difficult marching through cliff roads. All in (so it seemed) turned out to see us go. For about a mile we had only a little lane to pass through the

From where I lay there was a high ridge of ground in sight. On this stood and lay hundreds of men silhouetted against a beautiful red sunset. To the left were the wagons passing one after the other; all around little stacks of arms, and to the right three great searchlights blazing. It would have made a beautiful picture. Well, now I am at _____ in a large hut with forty-nine others, a khaki plan. We keep guard every other night over the magazines and get sleep every other night. I don't go to sleep every other night, as the blockhouse is too cold for that. There are 16,000 of us here. Last night I had to pull up all motorcars on the roads, ask them where going and then search them; also stop all cycles and carts. Some of us have been promised passes into _____ because of good conduct. I wish I knew some one who would not mind a "lonely soldier" coming to tea. You can't realize how much we long for civilization. Here we live khaki, see it all day and dream of it all night, until we are sick of it.

We spent Sunday afternoon raiding (P. S. A.) We got four big ones and two little ones. I got one small. There was great argument afterward as to whether rats were counted by the brace or coveye. There was another air raid on Tuesday and we thought we were going to christen our rifles. We fired three shells at it and heard them burst. It sounded like hitting iron with a hammer sort of "tang." It is uncanny sort of work guarding the dynamite towers; so utterly quiet, save the wail of a siren on the river.

also preparing to drill their fourth test well on the Charles Stauffer farm, which will be 600 feet west of their No. 1, which was reported dry, and was in the center of their lease. With this well a deep test will also be made.

Merchants Company Starts.

The Merchants Oil and Gas company has finished the work of rigging up their No. 1, Stauffer farm, which is located upon the eastern portion of this farm, joining the Mike Murphy lease, which has two producing wells. The well was started today, a star rig being used.

The Barlow Trustee, William Fuchs farm well No. 1, is drilling today at 525 feet in tough gumbo.

Bowers & Witherspoon started their No. 2 Kennedy farm, today. This well will be located just northeast of the residence of Rankin Kennedy. It is evident that these astute operators thought the showing in their first well sufficient to justify a second test. The farm is two miles east of the Fuchs farm.

Taylor Oil &amp; Gas Developing.

The Taylor Oil & Gas company are preparing to develop their holdings rapidly. A derrick is going up for their No. 5, on the north end of their Mrs. E. Stiles farm. No. 6 is rigging up on their north and east line. A derrick is going up for their No. 7, upon the southeastern portion of their lease, near their No. 1. A derrick is also being erected for their No. 8 upon the north and west corners of their E. Stiles farm lease.

Peach Orchard Are Drilling.

Drilling continues on the Peach Orchard company well just west of Thrall, operations having been resumed after the packing was replaced on the pumps. At present they are drilling at 500 feet, having had another showing of gas with traces of oil at 423 feet.

To the northwest the Caprock Company are drilling their No. 1, on the Horn farm, and are drilling at 450 feet. The formations at this level, the drillers report, continue identical with those on the Fuchs hilltop.

The Thrall Independent Oil company are drilling on their No. 3, Diebel farm, and expect to finish the well this week.

The Big Four Oil company are preparing to start their second well on the east portion of the Diebel farm, after having drilled their No. 1 deeper, but which is not yet producing.

The Big Four Oil company, on the J. V. Stiles farm, using cable tools, have not completed their well, and are reported drilling at 750 feet.

Stockholders in the Carnation Oil company are elated over reports that a well, adjoining their property on the south, is about to be brought in. Some of the leading men in Waco are directors of this company, which has a large amount of land in the district under lease.

The Fuchs Oil company reports that four-fifths of the lots it offered for sale on Brushy Creek have already been disposed of. The company gives with each lot a share in the first two wells which it is proposed to drill. The San-Antonio-Thrall Oil company proposes to drill eight wells, the first one on the Shelby tract, adjoining the Discovery tract, upon which nine flowing wells have already been brought in. J. E. Cicero, San Antonio, and L. D. Prewitt, Taylor, well known oil men, are president and secretary respectively, of the company.

The Thrall City Oil company owns a valuable lease north of the producing wells. It is announced that a well will be drilled in the very near future.

Life Underwriters Hear Addresses at Monthly Luncheon

J. Y. Webb Speaks on "Getting Together," James Hays Quarles on "Honesty Best Asset."

The question of the affiliation of the Central Texas Association of Life Underwriters with the national association was settled, far as the local association was concerned, by the receipt of a letter from the secretary of the national organization, is reply to the letter written him by the secretary of the Central Texas branch, Charles P. Link, in which he stated that the request for affiliation was received and turned over to the national body, which would act on the application at the next meeting of the association. The request asks for affiliation to begin on June 1, and the reply stated that it would be all probability accepted as the constitution and by-laws of the Central Texas body were in accordance to the rules of the national organization.

The election of delegates, which was scheduled for the regular meeting of yesterday, was delegated to the president, J. S. Shaw, who will appoint five delegates to attend the national convention, which meets this year in San Francisco, beginning Aug. 10 and lasting through the 13th, from those members who desire to attend, as soon as he can get their names. The list must be forwarded to the national secretary not later than May 15, so that arrangements can be made for their entertainment.

The luncheon-meeting of the association was attended by a representative delegation of the underwriters of central Texas, and besides the routine business they were well pleased with the other features of the meeting. J. Y. Webb gave an address on "Getting Together" and brought out the strong points that come from the understanding of the other underwriters and the strength that comes from co-operation and the benefits that are derived from the "pull together plan" rather than the "each man for himself." He briefly outlined the pleasures of working when one is working with the others and the better outlook when all is co-operation and harmony and when one is strictly honest in their efforts to outwork the other man.

Following Mr. Webb was an address delivered by James Hays Quarles of the Tribune editorial staff, who was asked late the day before to deliver the address on "Honesty Best Asset" scheduled to have been delivered by Judge Erwin J. Clark. Judge Clark was detained by a social call on docket, so that he was unable to attend. Mr. Quarles brought out strong points on honesty being the principal asset in any profession and especially in the underwriters, as in past some had not been altogether truthful in selling their policies and as a result the public had come to doubt many true statements made by the insurance men. He defined assets as two kinds—the real and the intangible. Of the two, he said that the latter were much more important because the first could be bought, but that the latter must be made and that through years of struggle and safe-guarding.

A vote of thanks was given R. O. Sauer for the courtesy of a box of cigars and to W. W. Seelye, proprietor of the State House, for the luncheon.

The regular meeting day was changed from the second to the third Saturday in each month, as some of the insurance men belong to other organizations that meet on the second Saturday and so were kept from attending.

The resolutions committee made its report and the following resolutions of sympathy for the bereaved family of the late W. D. Mayfield were adopted:

"Whereas, it has pleased an all-wise Providence to take from us by death one of our most beloved members, Dr. W. D. Mayfield.

"Whereas, in his death our association has lost one of the most valued and loyal supporters; therefore be it Resolved, by the entire membership of the Central Texas Association of Life Underwriters, that we extend to his bereaved family our most sincere sympathy and assure them of our friendship. Be it further

"Resolved, That the above resolutions be spread on the minutes and a copy sent the bereaved family and the Waco press.

Chief Bauerle Thanks Waco for Helping Entertain Firemen

"I want to thank the people of Waco, one and all, for the assistance they so generously rendered the local department in entertaining the visiting delegates to the Texas Volunteer Firemen's Association," said Fire Chief Ed Bauerle yesterday.

"Waco has again demonstrated the fact that we are proud of the volunteer fire boys of Texas, and their hospitality was spontaneous and complete."

"I want to add that there is no city in the state where the firemen would rather meet than in Waco, which always seems like home to them."

SOUTHERN BAPTISTS MOVE ON HOUSTON

SEVERAL THOUSAND STRONG THEY'LL HOLD ANNUAL CONVENTION.

FOURTH TIME FOR TEXAS

Some Points of Interest Concerning Convention and Its Work in Which Waco Figures.

To the Waco Morning News: Local Baptists are keen in their anticipation of the meeting of the Southern Baptist convention in Houston on Wednesday next, at 3 p.m. This is the first time the convention, which has a constituency of more than 3,000,000 white Baptists in the southern states, has met in Texas since 1884, when it convened in Fort Worth. It had met in Texas before that time, at Jefferson in 1873, at Waco in 1883 and at Fort Worth in 1884. In 1882 the First Baptist church of Waco, of which Dr. B. H. Carroll was pastor, had just completed a new meeting house, valued at $40,000, the finest Baptist meeting house ever erected in the state up to that time. It was completed in time to welcome the session of the Southern Baptist convention. Waco Baptists were at their best in dispensing hospitality. In connection with the meeting of the convention, a tour into Mexico was arranged and conducted by Dr. O. C. Pope, one of the noblest Baptist leaders of that day.

Houston Baptists will be as alert in endeavoring to make the convention of this year as interesting to thousands of visiting delegates as Waco was in those days long past. It appears now that there will be a very large attendance, for at the meeting of the state executive board in Dallas, during the last week, more than 600 delegates were named from Texas alone, and there will be thousands in attendance who are not officially named as delegates.

Texas Gave Liberally to Missions.

Texas will go to the convention in a spirit of great satisfaction, having just achieved a new record in mission contributions. This state gave to foreign missions more than $57,000, and to home missions a little less. The rise of $71,000 in the huge offering was, says the corresponding secretary, Dr. J. E. Gambrell, says, "literally pulled out of the mud," and in the face of the hard times is conclusive proof of the loyalty of the Texas Baptists and of the returning confidence, if not positive assurance of the actual arrival of prosperity.

The convention in Houston will be significant in the important business matters which will come up for consideration, and under the new arrangement business will be limited to the morning hour, the afternoon being left open for important committee meetings, conferences, etc., while the evening hour will be devoted to inspirational addresses. The work of the convention is divided among four important interests, that of foreign missions with headquarters in Richmond, Va.; that of home missions, with headquarters in Atlanta; a Sunday school conference, located at Nashville, Tennessee; and the Southern Baptist Theological seminary, located at Louisville, Ky. The women of the south carry on a very extensive work through the channels of the Women's Missionary union, which will be held during the same time, in the First Methodist church, Houston.

Two Familiar Faces Missing.

The faces of two of the foremost leaders among Southern Baptists will be sorrowfully missed from the session of the convention. Dr. R. W. Shillingham, the greatest orator, the foreign board elder, who came into his own at the meeting of the convention in Dallas in 1884, and served the denomination continuously in that capacity until the hour of his death, passed away at his home in Richmond in December of last year. Dr. B. H. Carroll, by many regarded as the greatest Baptist preacher of his age, for so many years the towering pastor of the noble First Baptist church, Waco, and the founder of that phenomenal institution, the Southwestern Biblical Theological seminary at Fort Worth, passed to his rich reward last November.

Considerable interest is expressed in the proposed consolidation of all the boards of the convention. This suggestion was made and eloquently pleaded for in the session of last year at Nashville by the gifted Dr. McConnell, then pastor of Waco, now pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist church, Atlanta, Ga. Whether or not this issue will be settled at Houston cannot now be determined, but it is thought the convention will be unanimous whatever is done.

Several southern cities are making invitations to the convention to hold its next session with them. Among them, perhaps, Asheville, N. C., is the most active. Local camps will be held, a night campfire will be enjoyed, but one night during the camp all the neighbors will be called in and each tent will put on a stunt consisting of boxing match, wrestling, music; in fact, the program will consist of about all the stunts in the catalog.

This year the Y. M. C. A. boys will have a number of men on the camp and to see that they will have an enjoyable outcome, A. J. Flowers and E. W. Conway and several other men will be on the camp.

The campers will have a daily paper which will be read each night around

"Y" BOYS PLANNING FOR SUMMER CAMP

TEN DAYS TO BE SPENT AT FALLS ON BOSQUE FROM JUNE
8 TO 17.

Hikes, Daily Paper, Swimming and Other Diversions to Enliven
the Time.

The boys of the local Y. M. C. A. are getting things in readiness for their annual summer camp, which will be held this year at their old camp ground at the falls on the Bosque, three miles from Valley Mills. An advance party will go out a day before the bunch and get things in readiness for the campers. E. W. Conway will go with this bunch and will leave June 7. The camp will last ten days, June 8 to 17.

Something to do, something to think about, something to enjoy in the woods, with a view always to characterize building, is the objective of the camp. The motto of the camp will be "A gentleman always."

Every day at the boys' camp will be filled with a new program. One day will be given up to a field meet, another to cross country, and another to a campfire will be enjoyed, but one night during the camp all the neighbors will be called in and each tent will put on a stunt consisting of boxing match, wrestling, music; in fact, the program will consist of about all the stunts in the catalog.

This year the Y. M. C. A. boys will have a number of men on the camp and to see that they will have an enjoyable outcome, A. J. Flowers and E. W. Conway and several other men will be on the camp.

The campers will have a daily paper which will be read each night around

I. M. B. L. MEMBERSHIP MEETS TUESDAY NIGHT

FULL DETAILS OF HITCH WHICH CAUSED POSTPONING TRADE TRIP TO BE GIVEN.

Directors Will Ask League to Back
Them Up in Fight for Better Rates.

Full details of the hitch that has resulted in postponing indefinitely the first trade trip to have been run last Thursday to Tyler and may result in postponing others or abolishing all, will be presented to the general meeting of the Young Men's Business League Tuesday night.

The directors of the league in their meeting last Tuesday night resolved to take up the fight against increased rates for one-day trade trips, claiming that these rates were discriminatory in favor of the larger cities of the state, which make a practice of running trade trips of three or four degrees above what is termed the critical temperature of the particular steel and then suddenly cooling the steel. The actual process is a little more complicated than this statement would indicate. When the steel reaches this critical temperature, there is a sudden change in its composition.

The carbon and iron making up the steel change their relation, so that there is an actual change in the internal structure of the steel. The solid solution of carbon has increased.

Arrangements for the trolley ride were made by Representative Edgar E. Witt, who referred from Austin with his party, and Assistant Secretary Layton H. Little of the Chamber of Commerce. The special trolley car to carry the boys and girls was given through the courtesy of H. B. Ross, local superintendent of the Southern Traction company.

Heat Treatment Is Important in Making Autos, Says Oden

Letters have been sent out by President J. J. Hutchison inviting each member personally to attend the general meeting Tuesday night. The usual luncheon will be served, and some other form of entertainment will be provided to follow the business session. Chairmen of standing committees have interesting reports to make to the general membership.

Corsicana Orphans'

Band and Glee Club Given Trolley Ride

Forty-eight boys and girls comprising the band and girls' glee club of the State Orphans' Home at Corsicana yesterday afternoon, and afterward visited the Methodist Orphans' Home where the band and glee club gave a concert.

The party left at 8:15 in their special car over the Cotton Belt for Corsicana. The same party passed through Waco last Wednesday, en route to Austin, where they gave a concert in the house of representatives Thursday night.

Arrangements for the trolley ride were made by Representative Edgar E. Witt, who referred from Austin with his party, and Assistant Secretary Layton H. Little of the Chamber of Commerce. The special trolley car to carry the boys and girls was given through the courtesy of H. B. Ross, local superintendent of the Southern Traction company.

Heat treatment of steel parts, especially the drop-forged parts, plays a very important part in the automobile industry, though the value of such treatment, according to W. M. Oden, distributor in this territory for the Haynes, America's First Car, is little appreciated by the average owner on account of his lack of knowledge in regard to its possibilities.

Steel is a mixture of free carbon combined with iron and what is known as a solid solution of carbon in iron. The hardness and toughness of steel depends upon the condition that this carbon exists in the steel.

Heat treatment in its elementary form consists in heating the steel to a few degrees above what is termed the critical temperature of the particular steel and then suddenly cooling the steel.

The actual process is a little more complicated than this statement would indicate. When the steel reaches this critical temperature, there is a sudden change in its composition.

The carbon and iron making up the steel change their relation, so that there is an actual change in the internal structure of the steel. The solid solution of carbon has increased.

The important steps of heat treatment consists in getting the steel up to the proper temperature, as to obtain this changed structure, and then to cool the steel suddenly to retain the structure.

All steel is crystalline, and a broken section will show, and a properly heat treated steel should show a fine, silky grain, while the untreated steel is usually coarse grained. The effect of heat treatment is to increase wonderfully the strength of the steel. For example, a piece of steel that would break under a pull of 60,000 pounds before heat treatment, will not break after heat treatment until a load of 120,000 pounds is applied.

The relative increase in strength due to heat treatment depends, of course, upon the initial composition of the steel and to the per cent of the carbon and other elements.

The use of heat treated forgings slightly smaller than the untreated forgings used in the past years, enables the automobile to be built lighter and at the same time actually stronger.

Every steel forging in the Haynes Light Six car, such as the crank shaft, cam shaft, steering knuckles, brake levers and connecting rods, is heat treated. Even the gears in the transmission and rear axle are given the heat treatment to prevent any possibility of their being stripped, should an attempt be made to shift gears at the wrong time.

Belton, May 8.—H. H. Harvey, for over twenty years a resident of Belton, former postmaster and ex-deputy commander of the Grand Army of the Republic for Texas, died at the family residence here last night, following an illness of several weeks duration, pneumonia being the principal cause of his demise.

Deceased was aged 71 years. The widow and four nieces are immediate surviving relatives. Funeral arrangements have been completed up to a late hour today. Mr. Harvey served as postmaster here during the McKinley and Roosevelt administrations.

MARKET REPORT*STOCKS AND BONDS

New York, May 8.—The net result of today's stock market session is calculated to dispel all doubt of this country's ability to maintain its financial equilibrium in the face of trying circumstances.

Overnight advices in connection with the sinking of the Lusitania causing port and shipping interests to grapple imports were expected to find direct reflection in the values of securities. As a matter of fact, the market broke severely in the first fifteen minutes stocks throughout the island declining from 10 to 15 points.

Liverpool cables were better than due and the market here opened at an advance of 4 to 10 points. Sentiment in London seemed to be more or less gauged and admitted there was a good demand from houses with foreign connections and local trade interests, which readily absorbed some further scattering selling and sent the action more or less flat for the remainder of the day. Near the close some covering by recent sellers and the close was only slightly off from the best under renewed reasoning or liquidation.

Confirmation of yesterday's reports that China and Japan had come to an understanding probably helped the market, and while the market was disturbed by the situation as to war risks and marine insurance, some of the larger local trade interests appeared to be of the opinion that no serious check would be anticipated in the export of commodities.

A review of the dry goods situation showed no particular change in the volume of business or outlook and some further anxiety was reported in addition to the southwest, which is believed to mean a spell of dry warm weather. Further rains in the eastern belt were considered beneficial from a new crop standpoint.

Port receipts today 15,161; exports 27,284; port stocks 1,208,630.

New Orleans. May 8.—A quiet and steady feeling prevailed in the cotton market with prices on the upgrade and reacting from the decline of yesterday. Early in the session the ring was active and excited and a large business was done, but with few developments the market soon quieted down. In the early trading prices gained 15 to 16 points shorting to the best buyers. After the first edge of profit taking was off the market sagged under the influence of the rains in the eastern belt and at one time threatened to break through the level of yesterday's close.

Profit-taking on the bear side started again at the lower levels and prices quickly responded. In the session the market was widened to 17 to 18 points. The close was at net gain for the day of 10 to 12 points.

A feature of the session was the failure of the market to meet the demand on this side yesterday. The unexpected steadiness in Liverpool did much to stimulate realization among holders of short cotton.

COTTON

New York, May 8.—The action of the cotton market today indicated the demoralization and severe break of yesterday afternoon had fully reflected the shock to sentiment of the sinking of the Lusitania and closing prices were steady at a net advance of 11 to 15 points.

COFFEE

New York, May 8.—The market for coffee futures was lowered following the sinking of the Lusitania, which probably more or less started by news of the sinking. The market opened at a decline of 6 to 11 points after active month sold about 8,000 bags, net lower. There were no material changes in the Brazilian market, however, as prices later rallied slightly on some months, with the close at a net loss of 6 to 17 points. Sales were only 10,000 bags.

ORPHANAGE SUPPORTS MADE-IN-WACO IDEA

NEW BUILDINGS TO BE CONSTRUCTED BY LOCAL LABOR MATERIAL BOUGHT HERE.

Open House Will Be Kept on the Day of Breaking Ground for Additions.

Contract was let Tuesday for the construction of new buildings at the Methodist Orphans' home, on Herring Avenue, which when completed, will practically double the capacity of the home. Included in these new buildings will be a hospital, a laundry, a workshop, a large administration building, containing the quarters of the manager; a large girls' dormitory and kitchen. Construction will be commenced in a few days. The day that dirt is broken for the new buildings, open house will be kept. Entertainment will be provided and the public generally invited.

The necessity of extending the facilities of the orphanage became evident last year, when more than 200 children were turned away on account of the lack of room. Officials of the home believe that the added capacity will be used within a short time after completion.

The management of the orphanage supports the trade-at-home idea. Since the organization of the home more than $500,000 has been spent in Waco for supplies. A Waco architect drew the plans for the new buildings, and a Waco contractor employing Waco workmen will do the work. All material will be purchased in this city.

During its existence the home has cared for 300 of Waco's orphan children. There now are in the home forty-six Waco children. Eighty per cent of the children in the home had parents who were members of no church. While the home is owned and controlled by the Methodist church, its work is non-sectarian. A first-class school, including the high school work and domestic science, is taught in the home.

The home has an ideal location with eighty acres of land. It matters not how large the city may grow, the home will not be crowded. It spends annually in the city $35,000. With the completion of the new buildings and the increase in the number of children, the amounts spent in the city will be practically twice as much as at present.

Long Trip Is Made in Trumbull Auto at Small Expense

W. M. Oden, Waco agent for the Trumbull automobile, is being visited by J. F. Stephens, factory representative, who has just completed a 14,000 mile trip from the factory at Bridgeport, Conn., which he started last November to Oklahoma City, which he reached the first of this month. His total repair bill for the trip was only $15.75.

The Trumbull is a 4-cylinder, 18-horsepower car, which retails for $425. It has a high tension magneto, electric lighter, sliding gear transmission, three speeds forward and reverse, semi-floating rear axle, cantilever springs and is a self-starter.

Mr. Stephens is enthusiastic over the car and those who have watched him handle it do not wonder at his enthusiasm.

Sam House Receives Year in Jail for Axe Handle Killing

GUILTY of aggravated assault was the jury verdict yesterday morning in the Sam House murder case in the Fifty-fourth district court. His punishment was fixed at a year in the county jail. House was charged with killing Joe McDaniel at Moody, Feb. 1, 1914, with an axe handle. At a former trial he was found guilty and given ten years in the penitentiary, but the court of criminal appeals reversed the case.

Four Men Break Jail, One Captured, Other Three Are at Large

Three of the four men who escaped from the county jail early yesterday morning are still at large. The other, C. E. Budro, who was being held for federal authorities on the charge of impersonating a federal officer, was captured yesterday morning shortly after his escape by Tom Carlton and George Barnard, former members of the city police force, and who are now employed to patrol the residence sections at night. Suspicions of the two officers were aroused when they saw the man walking rapidly at Eleventh and Austin. The officers overtook the man, who claimed to be a railroad fireman. He said he was hurrying to catch the early Katy Limited north. It was not until the patrol wagon arrived at the half-mile of the two officers that they knew of the jail delivery.

John O'Malley, charged with robbing the postoffice at Azle, Tex.; F. M. Green, a convict from the penitentiary at Huntsville, and Harvey Brazil, recently bound over to the grand jury on a charge of burglary, were the three men who made good their escape. Trainmen on the Texas Central reported that a man conforming to the description of Green boardered the early morning train out of the city. Descriptions of the men have been sent to officers in nearby towns and cities.

The four men were in the same cell on the first floor of the jail. They got into the run-around by sawing through the bottom hinges of the cell door, and by means of a twisted blanket and an iron bar springing the door at the bottom sufficiently for them to crawl through. They escaped from the run-around by sawing through two steel bars. This is the first jail delivery in the thirteen years of Jailer Costley's custodianship.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mrs. Sydney Marks and Miss Esther Marks of Corsicana are the guests of Mrs. J. Rubin.

Mrs. J. Rubin returned from Corsicana after spending a month with her daughter, Mrs. Sydney Marks.

Mrs. H. G. Ross, who has been critically ill for the past two days, was reported considerably improved last night.

Miss Beryl Knickerbocker, daughter of Rev. H. D. Knickerbocker of Temple, arrived yesterday to spend the week-end with Miss Josephine Daniels, 1209 Franklin street.

Rotan and Dexter Lose to Chick Evans and Berney

Fort Worth, May 8.—Chick Evans of Chicago, western champion, and George V. Lewis of Waco, Texas champion, were the feature players in a four-ball best-ball foursome at Rivercrest today. Evans and his partner, Morris E. Berney, Fort Worth, defeated Rotan and Charley Fort, of Dallas, 1 up at the twenty-fifth hole.

The scores were even at the ninth hole and again at the eighteenth, and an added hole was played, Evans winning 1 up.

There was no particularly brilliant playing, the driving being the best feature of the match. Rotan turned in a 78 on the eighteen holes, which was one stroke better than Evans required.

At the beginning of the match Rotan seemed to be nervous, but made a much better showing on the last nine holes.

Evans had been on the train for three days before arriving here Saturday morning and this handicapped his playing.

He was also at a slight disadvantage because the fact is he is not accustomed to sand greens.

Evans left for Chicago early Saturday night. Rotan went to Dallas, where he will play today on the course over which the state tournament will be held the latter part of this month.

Championship Games in Y. M. C. A. League

This week will decide the championship of the two divisions in the Y. M. C. A. league. Dan Hill's team, winner of the Senior High School division, will play "Spider" Lewis' team, winners of the Employed Boys' division.

The championship games probably will start at 6 o'clock. The number of judges and ground rules will be decided by the captains.

Ben Lee Boynton of the High School team will umpire the series. The games are to be played on Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons at the new Cotton Palace diamond. Both captains are to play just those men signed up already on their teams, no transferring being allowed. Both teams are even-matched and some good games are expected.

Panthers Also in a Batting Slump

Fort Worth, May 8.—Though the average percentage of three of the team Panthers is over the .300 mark, the team as a whole has been in a batting slump lately. The slump is not a temporary affair, as the Nancemen are meeting the ball but having hard luck in getting the ball, but having hard luck in getting the ball.

The poor showing is not satisfactory.

The poor showing of the Panthers has been sensed thus far. Mechanically, the infield is almost perfect and the inner defense has shown rare judgment in diagnosing the attack of the opposition.

McChesney and Hays have exceptional control of all the territory in left and center, and both are good judges of fly balls. Because of the fact that he got an ankle last season, McIver is not showing the speed of which he used to have. His knowledge of the batters in this circuit enables him to lay for them and makes it very difficult for them to get a hit into right field.

The Panthers begin a series at Waco today, returning to their own yard they will make stands in each of the South Texas cities. Fans who have not seen the Panthers yet this season should wait until they can give Bill Nance's adherers the careful double-O horns, making any rash pennant prognostications.

On the infield they will find two well-known performers in Al Lee and Jake Atz, the record of the team.

Let us show what these men can do. Bobby Stow and Fred Hunter are the new men on the inner defense and they have no superiors in this league. Stow is a master of the field. He moves quickly, the ball on the dead run brings it up neatly and can throw from any position. He knows what to do with the ball when he gets it, and never hesitates on a play. Hunter, with his skill, makes a wonderful front door guardian. It is a pleasure to watch the new Panther outfielders, Harper and McChesney, play their positions.

The Houston Buffs opened here last Sunday and by catching Roy Fenster when he was wrong they got a 6-to-4 verdict. Fenster came back the next day and won 6 and 2 over Tuesday. Buffsford won a 2-to-1 game on Tuesday. Fenster was 4-1 on Wednesday, but rain stopped the first two games. The breaks have been going against the Panthers in several of the games here, and the fans are well satisfied with the team's showing.

Shreveport Fans Are Still Optimistic

Shreveport, La., May 8.—The Gassers are not cutting as wide a swath in the Texas league as they had been, but the fans here hardly expected Gartin to go out in his first season and cop a pennant. He has had some trouble getting the present club together. He came here late and had to take the culls and leavings, as it were. He is hiring new hands every once in a while, trying to build up.

The Houston Buffs opened here last Sunday and by catching Roy Fenster when he was wrong they got a 6-to-4 verdict. Fenster came back the next day and won 6 and 2 over Tuesday. Buffsford won a 2-to-1 game on Tuesday.

The other writers around the circuit are having a laugh at Gartin's expense, claiming he is signing all the castoffs in the league. Crabbe has signed good ball since he has been here, and Hays and Hester, who reported for the first game in Thursday's game, put up a jamb game of baseball. His two-base drive was one of the three his club gathered off the visiting pitchers.

The local management is trying to get players. President Hirsh sent out thirteen telegrams Thursday morning. He seems to think that what the club needs is pitchers.

NINTH STREET WINS TWO.

North Ninth Street's fast boys' team yesterday afternoon beat South Third Street 6 to 5. In a morning game the second North Ninth team beat the Fifteenth Street team 9 to 1.

Buffs Are Making Steady Progress in Spite of Cripples

A baseball comedy parading under the guise of a regularly scheduled game between the fast fan and the senior-senior of Baylor will pull off on Carroll Field tomorrow afternoon at 4:15 o'clock. The senior-senior games in the past have been laughable affairs, with the unsuspicious students fans being belated spectators of the unfamiliar sight of the dignified professors playing. Justin Bell is captain of the upperclass nine, and Graduate Manager Gantz has been playing on the faculty for the acidity.

A large crowd of students are expected to be present when the heads of deparments and instructors pay their homage to the sports of the season.

And this is spite of the fact that at one time three of the regulars, Dodd,

Davis and Hiles, were out of the line-up at the same time. Hiles' case is hopeless for many days to come, and while Dodd may assume infield duty even with his good strength, he will be unable to assist

Allen in the catching. Wheel-horse Sled seems to be going all the better for the enforced toll. And no one can ever accuse the big maskman of unfeelingness to the sport. Through the seasons from 1911 to 1912 he has been the receiving practically alone, donbiehlers, single games and all, catching over a hundred consecutive games.

And he may be alone now, shoulder-ing the same work without complaint. Gerald Davis, suffering from a case of charliehorse, has struggled back into the

CONWELL STAR OF THE GAME

Slams Out a Triple and a Twobagger and Scores Two of Navigators' Runs.

Returned: The Navigators, after a short sojourn to Shumpford.

There can be no doubt but that the Navigators are back. Too many indications point in that direction. First, they beat the Panthers, 3 to 0. Had it been any other club in the league that the Skippers defeated the proof of their come-back might not be so positive, but as a rule any old crew assembled under the Panther banner can stroll out onto a diamond and mop up the scenery with the Navs. But the crew was on the job in yesterday's affair and took the first game of the series without seemingly great effort. Secondly, in the reason for the statement that the bunch is back, seven hits were registered by the locals. Not a great haul, but surely as could be. And thirdly, but one error was made, and that by Conwell, it being excusable when it is considered the clever young man has really had but little chance to keep edge, and then it didn't count anything.

Conwell seems to have made a very wise move indeed in getting Conwell into the lineup. He yesterday sent Conwell to short center to left field and released H. C. Miller who has been playing left. While some probably dislike to see Budds sent to the outfield, right now it is undoubtedly a wise trick and worked well yesterday. It may not be permanent.

Jack Ashton, though a little off form being slightly under the weather went into the box for Waco and handled the situation to the satisfaction of all. He was pulled in the seventh, when he got a bit wobbly, Hatton Ogle going in and clinching the win Jack had earned.

But it was Conwell who was the big boy of the day. He broke in as an honest-to-gosh member of the club with a three-base hit. This developed into a run on Malmquist's sacrifice fly in the first inning. In the fourth he drove out a double and it also grew into a run. He got four assists, a put-out and one hard-luck boot.

Tanner Has One Chance.

Tanner, in his left field position, had but one real chance, which he handled. He had another slim opportunity to display his speed after a high foul, but failed to get his hands properly under it. The chance was too difficult to be counted as an error.

Fans were treated to the sight of the Navigators again in form, again battling with the wisdom and pep of days but recently passed. Of course the bunch has not been in its stump long enough for the fans to have really figured it as anything serious, but to see the old snap was pleasing to the loyal.

For Worth worked hard all the way, and did hard. This was all the more pleasing, for it tested the ability of the locals. Harrah started for For Worth and looked good, being pulled to make way for a pinch hitter in the seventh. Kid Nance performed in that role, and almost got away with the goods, but might have done better had he waited instead of hitting a bad one with the count 1 and 3. The ball he hit lined into the hands of Malmquist for a double, squelching the Panthers' best opportunity to break the thing up in their favor. Redford finished pitching for For Worth.

In the first inning Tanner lined out to Lee at third; Conwell drove a hot one between short and second base, and the ball took an erratic hop which gave the runner three-bagger when it got away from the outfielders. Malmquist's sacrifice fly to Harper scored Conwell. James grounded out to Atz at second.

In the fourth Conwell doubled to center field. Malmquist bunted one to Harrah, which the pitcher pegged badly to third and Conwell scored. Malmquist going to second James Wohleben dropped a fly between Harper and McChesney in the outfield and scored Malmquist. Crichton popped out to Atz and Grubb lined one to first which Hunter handled with a great one-handed grab.

In the seventh for Fort Worth McChesney hit through second. Conwell errred on Atz's grounder. McMurray forced McChesney at third. Harper walked and Ogle took Ashton's place in the box. Nance tattled for Harrah and lined one into the hands of Malmquist, who doubled Harper off first, getting Waco out of its only really serious hole of the game.
